Gibbes Museum of Art in Charleston, SC, Offers Greek Works from the Sol Rabin Collection

The Gibbes Museum of Art in Charleston, SC, is displaying From Chaos to Order: Greek Geometric Art from the Sol Rabin Collection, the first major museum exhibition in the US to focus on Greek art during the Geometric period (c. 900–700 B.C.) in more than 25 years. The show features 57 objects from the Sol Rabin Collection, considered the most important Geometric Greek collection in private hands. The exhibition will be on display in the museum’s Galleries 2 & 3 through Mar. 5, 2023.

Greek (Olympia?), “Dancing Bull,” Eighth century B.C., Bronze, The Sol Rabin Collection of Geometric art and its enduring legacy throughout classical antiquity and into the modern era. It also helps us to understand the significance of balance, beauty and form in art throughout human history.”

Chaos to Order is the first exhibition of its kind to focus on the aesthetics of Greek Geometric art and to demonstrate that stylistic principles in visual art during the Geometric period reflect a characteristically Greek idea of kallos, meaning the beautiful. A new visual vocabulary was developed during this period – one that stressed clarity, balance and symmetry. These design principles may appear contemporary, but they provided the foundation for all subsequent Greek art.

The exhibition includes a diverse range of Greek Geometric artworks: figures, animals, vases and personal ornaments such as warrior belts and pendants. The centerpiece is a ring-handled tripod cauldron, the only surviving example of the Geometric period still standing on its legs. Collectively these artworks provide a new approach to under-
