

Greenhill in Greensboro, NC

The public is invited to view a carefully curated selection of works from emerging and returning North Carolina artists in The Gallery at Greenhill. Over 500 works will be available for sale. With lead sponsor Printery, this signature event takes place in downtown Greensboro.

Laura Way, Greenhill's Executive Director says, "This is a very special Winter Show - it will culminate our yearlong look-back over Greenhill's history. To commemorate our 40th anniversary, Winter Show welcomes back a few seminal artists to Greenhill's history such as Richard Fennell, Henry Link, Rebecca Fagg, Betty Watson, Elizabeth Matheson, Michael Van Hout, and Nick Joerling; and introduce some new favorites such as Dean Alison, Eleanor Annand, Damian Stamer, and Melissa Engler. As always, the work is available for sale and any piece you purchase will feel fresh and vibrant, right for your home or your office, or perhaps it will find a place with a special friend."

On Dec. 6, Greenhill opens Winter Show with the Collector's Choice party and fundraiser. One of Greensboro's most popular holiday season events, Collector's Choice, provides a rare opportunity to become engaged with the very best fine art and craft North Carolina has to offer. Edie Carpenter remarks, "Winter Show has been a unique instrument for not only supporting Greenhill's mission through sales of artwork at Collector's Choice but also as a means of identifying new artists in the state as they emerge."

This year's Winter Show, with over 40 new artists, will be particularly exciting as it brings together works by artists with well-established careers with those of a younger generation." Collector's Choice attendees have an advance opportunity to purchase pieces in the Winter Show exhibition before they are available to the public. Proceeds from Collector's Choice benefit the exhibition and educational programming of Greenhill. Tickets will be available for $90 at the door. Purchase tickets online at (www.greenhillnc.org/winter-show) or by calling 336/333-7460.

On Sunday, Dec. 7, the general public is invited to Winter Show's public opening, which will be a fun afternoon for the whole family. There will be homemade holiday cookies created by Mary Lacklen courtesy of The Fresh Market, music by Holt Gwyn, and children and families can explore and create in ArtQuest at Greenhill. Led by educator/artist Steven Cozart, Weaver Academy student docents will be giving presentations on a selection of artists and works featured in Winter Show. Free and open to the public. Donations appreciated.

The Blue Ridge Arts Center in Seneca, SC, Returns to SC Art Community

The Blue Ridge Arts Center (BRAC) in Seneca, SC, has returned to active duty. The Board of Directors and volunteer staff are proud to announce that activities have resumed once again in their gallery and classroom at the historic church building in Seneca! A wide array of exhibits has been scheduled through 2015 including the annual Juried show in March and a natural materials exhibit in May.

To afford local artists a place to display their work or gather for classes, the decision was made to return as an all-volunteer organization. Membership is increasing steadily and BRAC has received grant funding for advertising which should further their efforts. The hours have changed slightly to Tuesday, Friday and Saturday 1-5pm, as they attempt to best accommodate our patrons and visitors. The current exhibit on view is Inspirations, featuring works by Oconee County Art Teachers and selected gifted students, on view through Dec. 19, 2014. Please come by and support our art educators, take in the talent of the artists and encourage the students to continue their pursuits.
