CAROLINA ARTS

A PUBLICATION COVERING THE VISUAL ARTS IN THE CAROLINAS

She Held the Glacier To Her Heart by Mary Alayne Thomas

watercolor & encaustic

20 x 16 inches

Painting is by Mary Alayne Thomas and is part of the exhibit Wandering Landscape on view through July 28, 2018 at Lark & Key Gallery and Boutique in Charlotte, North Carolina. Her colorful multi-layered watercolor and encaustic paintings chronicle “dreamy recollections” from recent travels, and will be accompanied by guest ceramic artist, Kelly Lynn Daniels.

Charleston County Public Library in Charleston, SC, Features Works by Troy Brown

The Main Branch of the Charleston County Public Library in Charleston, SC, will present Histories, Memories and Memoirs, featuring works by Troy Brown, on view in the Saul Alexander Gallery, from July 1 - 31, 2018. The First Monday Gallery Night opening reception will be held on July 2, from 6-7pm.

Brown's work delves deeply into elements of memory and how those memories impact our abilities to move through life. He examines not only the fluidity of memory, but also its seemingly untapped power to impact everyday life as an artist first then individually. Through this work, Brown seeks to expand his research as he visually ponders his own memories, their origins and connectedness to reality, destiny, and dreams.

Brown's work explores the possibilities of tapping into memory as a tool for guiding our creative impulses.

Born and raised in the Midwest, as a Cincinnati he attended the Art Academy of Cincinnati earning a BFA in Communication Arts, then attended the University of Cincinnati where he earned a Masters in Art Education while continuing his professional practice as an illustrator and graphic designer. He now resides in North Carolina with his wife and two sons creating in his studio when he is not teaching courses at a university.

Charleston Artist Guild in Charleston, SC, Features Works by Kay Moffitt

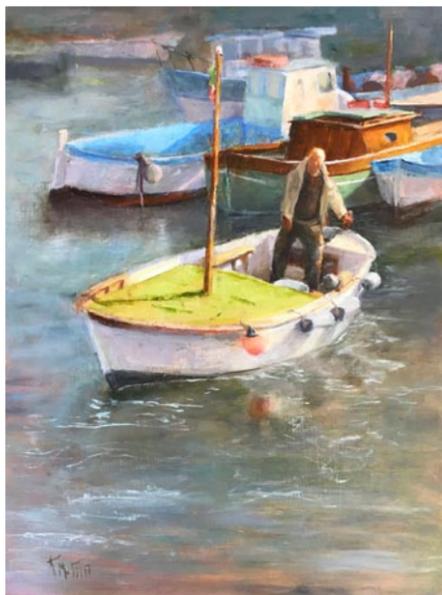

The Charleston Artist Guild in Charleston, SC, will present Life Paths, featuring works by award-winning artist Kay Moffitt, on view at the Guild Gallery from July 1 - 31, 2018. A reception will be held on July 6, from 5-8pm.

Moffitt's work is often described as conveying an air of mystery. Beneath her brush the commonplace becomes captivating - each image brimming with unanswered questions, stories untold, and secret paths that lead to uncertain ends.

In Life Paths, Moffitt immortalizes subjects from all walks of life on canvas in equal regard, giving light to those who frequently go unseen, and compelling the viewer to consider the depths of character in each.

Her color choices are often more tonal, but even the moodiest work will have touches of color. In her own words, "I find painting the gritty captures my interest more than the pretty aspects of life."

Moffitt was recently awarded First Place in the Charleston Artist Guild 64th Annual Members Exhibition for her painting Welcome Home. Over the years it has been her privilege to study with accomplished artists such as Richard Schmid, Sherrie McGraw, David Leffel, Scott Christensen, Quang Ho and others. Moffitt has participated in several group shows and exhibitions in Pennsylvania, Illinois and South Carolina.

Work by Kay Moffitt

In her 10 years living in the Chicago area she was an active participant in programs at the Palette and Chisel Art Center and the North Shore Art League. She is a member of the Charleston Artist Guild, the Mount Pleasant Artists Guild and Oil Painters of America.

Editorial COMMENTARY

by Tom Starland, Editor and Publisher

Not Ready For Prime Time

I know I say something about this every year, but it's something worth mentioning as it's very important to every visual art venue - whether a major art museum, a community art space, a non-profit art space, or a commercial gallery.

"If you're going to present an exhibition and if you're not going to promote it - don't bother putting it on."

There are people who believe, "If you present it - they will come". No they won't - if they don't even know it's taking place, where it's taking place, or for how long and at what times.

For over thirty years we have provide those who present visual art exhibits in North and South Carolina a free medium to promote their exhibits, yet thirty years later we still can't get some people to send us their info about these exhibits.

We have some venues who never, ever, miss a month to promote their exhibits. There are some who occasionally send us info and then there are the folks who send it once after we have encouraged them to send us that info, but never do again.

During those thirty years I've wondered why people don't send us this info and I've come up with a few reasons.

A few won't send us their info because I have criticized the SC Arts Commission from time to time and they are worried if they do they might lose some of their funding from the Arts Commission. That's a sad thought, but it's true. Some just care if the people who support their venue hear about what they are doing, anything else is a lot of work. Some just think it doesn't matter - no one is going to come see their exhibits. Some groups who say they cover all the arts, but are really oriented towards the performing art where tickets produce revenue are less interested in promoting events that are free. Again very sad. And, there are some that are just too lazy or claim they are just one person and don't have time for publicity.

Every time I hear that excuse I wonder how Linda and I put out a publication covering the visual arts in two states for thirty years. And, Linda works on it part time.

I recently received an e-mail from an organization in the Carolinas which said in the subject line - Check out why XYZ's art community is thriving. When I hit the link all I find is a handful of items, a few visual art mentions, but very few details. And the info was just about the events taking place at their venue, when I know there are many, many more, even just visual art venues that they say nothing about.

A lot of folks are trying to use the arts as a driving force to bring people to their city or community - translation - bring in tourism dollars. But they just don't get the concept behind promotion. They've fallen for that idea - "if you build it, they will come." And that's a bunch of bunk. If they don't know - they don't know where to go. And, the competition in the Carolinas is rough. How do you compete with places like Charleston, SC, and Asheville, NC, that already have a step up on the tourism game?

Well first, you need to let folks know that you are an option too, you're offering something to see, and all important - letting them know you'd like them to come visit and see all you have to offer. And, you can't do that by just sitting back and waiting for that to happen naturally, as others are pounding their drums loud and long to get people's attention and to get their bodies through their doors. Nothing happens when you do nothing.

Charleston County Public Library in Charleston, SC, and the SC State Library Offers Works by Cecil Williams

The Charleston County Public Library (CCPL) in Charleston, SC, and the SC State Library will present Unforgettable: Celebrating a Time of Life, Hope and Bravery, featuring works by photographer, Cecil Williams, on view in the CCPL's Main Branch Lobby, from July 1 through Sept. 30, 2018.

The exhibit features works by Cecil Williams, who is known for his documentation of the civil rights movement in South Carolina. The exhibit showcases a prelude to Williams' newest publication, "Unforgettable." The collection of 40 images provides a rare glimpse of events, portraits, and moments of significant social change during the 1950s through the 1970s. The noble subjects and pioneers captured in Williams' images depict the unforgettable waves of change that impacted the world during that era.

This exhibit will also commemorate the 50th anniversary of the Charleston Hospital Workers' Strike movement, (1968-1969) by featuring several of Williams' images from the strike.

The public is invited to a special reception and book talk, where they will have the opportunity to hear the legendary photographer, publisher, inventor, and author speak on July 30 between 6pm and 7:45pm, at the Main Branch in downtown Charleston. Williams will also be signing his book, "Unforgettable." Refreshments will be served after the presentation. The event is free, but registration is encouraged. To register for the event, visit (<http://bit.ly/CecilAtCCPL>). Attendees may also register by calling 843/805-6904.

This project is made possible with LSTA funds provided by the Institute of Museum and Library Services (IMLS) and administered by the SC State Library, and through the generosity of Cecil Williams. For more information about this exhibit, visit (www.ccpl.org/cecilwilliams).

Cecil Williams, a native of Orangeburg, SC, is a professional photographer, videographer, publisher, inventor, author of six books, and architect of six residences that became his home and photography studio. In May 2006, he published a photo-documentary entitled "Out of the Box in Dixie." "Unforgettable," the sequel to that publication, was released last year. Williams received a degree in Art from Claflin University.

Williams is a member of the coveted American Society of Media Photographers (ASMP), and a Getty Images contributor, an honor attributed to only a select number of photographers worldwide. In January 2016, the South Carolina African American Heritage Foundation honored Williams with the prestigious Herbert A. DeCosta, Jr. Trailblazer Award, an honor previously received by Congressman James E. Clyburn, Mayor Steve Benjamin, and Judge Matthew Perry.

The South Carolina State Library is the primary administrator of federal and state support for the state's libraries. Headquartered in Columbia, S.C., the Library is funded by the state of South Carolina, by the federal government through the Institute of Museum and Library Services, and other sources.

For further information check our SC Institutional Gallery listings, call the Library at 843/805-6904 or visit (www.ccpl.org).

The deadline each month to submit articles, photos and ads is the 24th of the month prior to the next issue. This will be July 24th for the August 2018 issue and Aug. 24 for the September issue. After that, it's too late unless your exhibit runs into the next month. But don't wait for the last minute - send your info now. And where do you send that info? E-mail to (info@carolinaarts.com).

The Wells Gallery at The Sanctuary on Kiawah Island, SC, Features Works by Russell Gordon

The Wells Gallery at The Sanctuary on Kiawah Island, SC, is proud to host Russell Gordon for a two-day live painting event on Thursday and Friday, July 5 and 6, 2018, from 1-6pm each day.

Gordon will be in the gallery on those days to visit with our guests, discuss his work, and paint live. His paintings join precise Realism with a painterly luminosity; a stylistic combination reminiscent of Italian Mannerism and 17th century Dutch and Flemish paintings, but rarely encountered in contemporary art. Even his materials reflect those of the past: he manufactures his own paint using a medium that is reformulated from that employed by Flemish artists. At the same time, Gordon's subject matter shows a decidedly contemporary viewpoint. In the end, the extraordinary impact of Gordon's art lies in his astonishing technique, his sense of visual realistic presence, and a fresh subject matter.

Words from the artist about this painting: "The reflected specter of your own paint-brush is hard to adjust to when painting on gold leaf, a version of yourself matching your every brushstroke from inside the panel," said Gordon.

Robert Lange Studios in Charleston, SC, Offers Works by Nathan Durfee

Robert Lange Studios in Charleston, SC, will present Tall Trees + Tales, featuring works by Nathan Durfee, from July 6 - 27, 2018. A reception will be held on July 6, from 6-8pm.

Durfee says of the exhibit, "My objective for this show was to make 20 unique trees with 20 unique stories. The trees are not only backdrops for my narratives, but are also central characters dripping with personality."

Durfee has been known to endlessly rework his initial sketches on the panel until he finds just the right composition. Once worked out, he systematically begins to build the painting with his diverse visual vocabulary of color and texture.

Durfee's previous shows have been defined by narrative elements; telling stories to tie the paintings together. This year he wanted to use composition and a single thematic element to drive the show, which is trees. The end effect showcases the growth and possibilities of his artistic style.

"Growing up, my parents read me 'the giving tree'. The tree is very charitable and selfless, but also possessed a surprising amount of utility. It provided food, income, shelter, safely, leisure, and love. I always wondered what else a tree could provide," said Durfee.

Many of the works in the show explore how the tree and their inhabitants coexist. Durfee says, "In 'Caretakers', the tree is depicted much like an ailing grandparent, a centerpiece to the family but also requiring attention and care. In 'Strictly Ornamental' the Kite has found another life as the splash of color in an otherwise bleak tree, forming a duo of abandoned objects."

Overall the exhibit is the perfect example of Durfee's unyielding ability to consistently evolve as a painter. He says, "In 'Their Place to Play' the tree is their home away from home: a safe space to play and create. With each piece I've painted, I am exploring new territory and refining and then reflecting upon my technique; this has led to major growth as an artist."

One collector's comment in anticipation for the upcoming show is, "The pilgrimage to Nathan Durfee's annual solo show is greatly anticipated in our home. We've watched his career grow from year to year and can't wait to see what is next," said Coco Nuttall, from SC.

Robert Lange Studios is a gallery space run by artist and gallery owners Megan and Robert Lange. As such, it is dedicated to the development of an on-going dialogue between artists from a diverse range of artistic disciplines at differing levels of their careers.

City of Charleston, SC, Features Works by Christine Bush Roman

The City of Charleston Office of Cultural Affairs is presenting Disconnected: Works by Christine Bush Roman, on view at City Gallery at the Waterfront Park, through Aug. 5, 2018. An Artist's Talk will be held on July 15, beginning at 2pm.

Combining transfer techniques with painting, drawing, and collage to give glimpses into the intricate and contradictory nature of modern life, these works explore postpartum depression, mental illness, and a life out of balance, while examining the web of issues that lead to detachments from one another and the natural world.

Disconnected brings together more than four dozen multi-media abstract works by Roman, and installs them to accommodate interactive engagement with the artist at City Gallery. A full schedule of the artist's visits to City Gallery, all free and open to the public, will be available after the start of the exhibition, on City Gallery's website at (www.charleston-sc.gov/citygallery).

Managing mental illness and autism in her family led Roman to question what leads to a life out of balance. The artist's work suggests that the American modern lifestyle fosters isolation instead of community, thereby exacerbating feelings of dissociation. Roman depicts the isolation and detachment that mental illness or brain differences can create from each other and the natural world. The works in Disconnected suggest a longing to reconnect and refocus while remaining stuck in the trappings of the American Dream.

way, especially for children who are autistic or experience issues like anxiety or depression. Our world, which feels ever more unstable, heightens the insecurity and urgency to find our place on this planet. Specific experiences are explored in each piece."

Roman was born in Georgia and now lives and works in Johns Island, SC. She received her MFA from the University of Georgia in 2013. She is most passionate about mixed media, drawing and painting, but also works in sculpture and installation. Her large and small-scale works draw connections between modern life and her experiences with mental illness, autism, and the growing disconnect between one another and the environment.

Roman says "My paintings are filled with symbols that serve to create a narrative about emotion, behavior, and our wavering relationships with reality. I try to depict the sensations of mental illness and I try to depict the chaotic mind of someone with autism or a sensory disorder. The Art League of Hilton Head on Hilton Head Island, SC, will present Glimpses of Gullah, featuring works by Samantha Claar, on view in the Art League Gallery, from July 3 - 28, 2018. A reception will be held on July 11, from 5-7pm.

Claar's work is inspired by the Gullah people of the local islands, and their rich and storied culture and history. Her passion and reverence for the people are evident as she describes them: "A formidable force in the life we appreciate in Georgia and SC".

Work by Samantha Claar

Through her art, she has promoted the theme as her main body of work. As she marvelously sums it up, "I love creating beautiful things, adding joy and understanding to a world that needs both. I also have a mission to share the glimpses I have received of the Gullah-Geechee people".

In addition, more than 150 pieces of local artwork in a variety of media is on exhibit and for sale.

Meet the artist on July 3, 5, 6, 10 and 27, from 12-3pm and July 18 and 19, from 11am-3pm at the Art League Gallery.

Main & Maxwell in Greenwood, SC, is pleased to announce their featured artist for July will be potter Robert Taft. The gallery will feature his work from July 1 - 31, 2018.

Other than things done well, the phrase, what if... inspires potter Bob Taft. "Taking a specific technique and trying it on another style of pot, using glazes in a new combination, firing pots in a new way. The possibilities in 'Clay' are endless if you ask What if?," said Taft.

While living in Asheville, NC, Taft took a non-credit wheel throwing class with Laurie Faye Long, but his real education started in 2006 when Gary Clontz created the Piedmont Technical College Creative Economies Program in Edgefield, SC. Taft feels that it was an amazing in-depth instruction into ceramics and he continues to work and evolve with his ceramic work.

Taft currently produces work and teaches classes at Edgefield Clay Center in Edgefield and his pieces are often wood fired in the town's historic ground hog kiln. In addition, he works in mid-fire stoneware producing both functional and decorative pieces. Most recently he has finished a series of wheel thrown and altered pig jugs that will be on display at the gallery in conjunction with the annual Festival of Discovery BBQ and Blues held in Greenwood, SC, from July 12 - 14.

West Main Artists Co-op in Spartanburg, SC, Features Works by Melissa McElhiney and Eugene Johnson

The West Main Artists Co-op in Spartanburg, SC, is presenting Through the Looking Glass, featuring works by ceramicist Melissa McElhiney and photographer Eugene Johnson, on view through July 14, 2018.

"There seems to be some disagreement as to whether or not photography is a form of art or simply a snapshot in time," Johnson explained. "This exhibit tries to address that very question through both works taken directly from the camera, as well as photography used as the base for images crafted through digital means. I want people to come away from this exhibit with an appreciation of the finished work."

McElhiney said the exhibit was inspired by "A play off of various words, thoughts

ite things in life as seen through my eyes, my own personal looking glass: a reflection on sights and memories of things past and present, with a bit of whimsy thrown in the mix -- as seen through the artsy heart."

The pottery and ceramics in this exhibit are a departure from what McEllhiney has done in the past. "Complete departure," she said. "I've been a functional potter with a little creativity thrown in, now I am stretching my limits and even working in a clay material I have never used before. Some of these are the biggest pieces I have ever attempted!"

Much of her work is based on a vessel or vase design that is cut apart to form flower-like sculptures. Others are sculpted with added organic features, giving the work a floral and pod resemblance. Until now, McEllhiney's work has been known to be "functional pottery." "I'm not just a function potter!," she exclaimed.

Eugene Johnson, too, is departing from what he has been known for and comfortable with in the past. "This exhibit is very much a departure from what I'm comfortable with," he said. "There's a family history of photographers that run back to my grandfathers. The majority of my work prior to joining WMAC has been event, sports, and photojournalism. The Co-op has allowed me to venture into and experiment with other forms of photography, such as figurative, expressionism, and most recently impressionism.

The exhibit is a collection of various styles of photography: landscapes, portraiture, figurative works, and macro in various styles both straight out of the camera, as well as molded works using various digital techniques."

Right out of high school, McEllhiney left her native Florida to travel and work in Renaissance Fairs across the continental United States. Performing and learning many trades, she always felt most at peace when she was creating something with her hands. In 2004, she left the fair circuit and settled back in South Florida for just shy of 11 years. During her time there she began to dabble in acrylic painting and mixed media, learning technique and form. After moving to South Carolina in 2015, she took her first pottery class in Spartanburg, under the tutelage of Jim Cullen of Roundhouse Pottery.

Within the first five minutes of her hands in the clay, she knew she had found her heart's desire. In the winter of 2015, she established a business for her art, The Blue Bee, which she currently sets up shop in and around the Greenville and Spartanburg area craft fairs and art shows. Today, she lives and works in Simpsonville. She has been a member of West Main Artists Co-Op for two years and is a single mother of a 16-year-old son.

"I took my first clay class just a couple of months after I moved here," she said. "It was love at first touch. I did not know what I was getting into, had no interest in doing wheel or anything. I had seen some Clemson students doing this cool thing at Artisphere - later learned the technique was called Sgraffito - and I wanted to carve designs into a bowl too. In order to do so, I needed to learn how to make a bowl, so I signed up for a class. I remember telling the teacher that I was going to learn how to make a bowl only so I could carve into it, that I wasn't interested in anything else. Then, I actually threw a bowl - successfully the first time - and literally cried. I didn't know why I wept, it just moved me. I felt like I went home. Anyhoo, it's been a whirlwind since!"

Johnson, 50, has been a member of WMAC since 2016, and this is his first exhibit. The Columbus, OH, native now lives in Spartanburg and said, "The co-op is a fantastic place to immerse yourself as an artist into a collective of various styles, abilities, and mediums. This exhibit has come together over the past two years.

There are influences throughout the exhibit from WMAC member artists who definitely played a role in expanding both the quality and content of the pieces on exhibit. I've been studying the works of Baroque and Impressionist painters and applying those techniques such as tenebrism, chiaroscuro, minimalism, and color, to photography. Also, I want an appreciation of the role of technology in art. There are times when technology can be a crutch and other times when it can be used as tool just like any other tool an artist may use."

All the work in Through the Looking Glass will be for sale.

For further information check our SC Institutional Gallery listings, call the Co-op at 864/804-6501 or visit (www.WestMainArtists.org).

The Undesirables is a series of objects, wall pieces, and jewelry. Jewelry is the main component of the series because Cassell believes the wearer herself completes the piece. Cassell adds, "The wearer gains a uniquely intimate relationship with the piece as physical sensation and attention to detail are incorporated into the viewing experience. Also, jewelry takes the art out of the gallery and into the world, so it is important that the works are actually wearable even if noticeably bulky, because the function of wearing empowers the ideas embodied within." The undesirable become sensuously desirable.

Cassell's pieces begin with carved wax that is then electroplated in a month-long cold bath of copper and sulfuric acid. Once her copper form has achieved the desired exterior, she can then melt the wax from its interior. Using a wire brush she scrubs the oxidation from the form and neutralizes its surface with baking soda. The enameling process begins by applying powdered glass, colored with oxides to the copper form.

Each layer of glass is melted and adhered to the copper in a kiln. Layer by layer, the coloration is built-up considering the translucent nature of the glass. The enameling, a product of heat, foretells the warmth the jewelry will absorb from its wearer. This long, deliberate process gives Cassell meditative space to consider ... "the ideas of fragility versus durability, and the cycle of death and rebirth."

Cassell has adopted Greenville as home with her husband and their two daughters. She is on the faculty of the Fine Arts Center and is also the Visual Art Department Chair. One of her most recent awards was the National Artists Teachers Fellowship allowing her to travel to England to work with British enamel artists, to explore the Jurassic Coast, and to tour the enameling archives at the Victoria and Albert Museum.

Greenville Technical College in Greenville, SC, Features Works by Katy Bergman Cassell

Greenville Technical College in Greenville, SC, will present The Undesirables: Jewelry by Katy Bergman Cassell, on view at RIVERWORKS Gallery, from July 6 through Aug. 5, 2018. A reception will be held on Aug. 3, from 6-9pm.

For centuries most civilizations have considered jewelry as an enhancement of beauty, it's luxurious, preciousness symbolizing the prestige of its wearer. Today, jewelry and desirables continue to be synonymous. Has Cassell debunked these centuries of history by creating jewelry titled, The Undesirables? Has she painstakingly carved and enameled brooches and necklaces that are off-putting and undesirable? Hardly. Cassell has discovered beauty of form and color in slugs living under a rock and in the fungus that grows on rotting wood. Baudelaire might have described her art "as a glimpse of the phosphorescence of decay." In her own words, "I find beauty in the forms associated with decay, signify-

West Main Artists Co-op in Spartanburg, SC, Offers Works by Plein Air Artists

West Main Artists Co-op in Spartanburg, SC, will present Art by Sight, featuring works by plein air artists, showcasing a large collection of artwork that was created outdoors in Upstate South Carolina, on view in the Venue, the facility's largest gallery, from July 3 - 27, 2018. A reception will be held on July 19, from 5-9pm, during the city's monthly ArtWalk.

The participating artists are all part of an informal and less-than-one-year-old group of retired teachers who gather to paint in the classic French tradition of plein air, which by definition is work created on location and outdoors. The group is still in the formative stages and includes core members Jessica Barnes, Shannon Patrick, Doris Turner, AK McMillan, Cynthia Link, and Shelba Cook.

Work by Doris Turner

"Through my association with various Upstate artists, I had heard about this group of artists who were gathering to do plein air," said the Co-op's chair of Venue Exhibits Dwight Rose, who is an established watercolorist. "I thought having them exhibit at West Main would be a good way to give them exposure and to bring in some of the community's most respected artists who practice plein air. It takes a bit of understanding to truly appreciate plein air," Rose said. "Most of the time artists work in their studios, but plein air artists work in the field, using natural light and often times dealing with a changing environment. They have to work fast, and sometimes they come back to a location to finish the work. Normally, I'd say, the work is spontaneous, in the moment, and less detailed than studio work. But each artist is different with different styles and techniques. The trick is applying your style and technique to working outside in the open spaces."

Each of the six artists will provide at least seven paintings, most of which will be for sale, starting at $50.

"I like the immediacy of the process. Looking at the scape and responding to it in an immediate way," Barnes said. "It is not overworked. It is much like our heroes paintings in the impressionist world. "Our backgrounds are different in that some are potters, fabric designers and mixed media artists," Barnes continued. "All of us have been art teachers. That alone shows that we have a streak of bravery in our makeup. Sometimes it is intimidating to sit and paint an almost finished work in public. The Co-op is gracious to share its space with us. Between us, we have 351 years of experience in appreciation and of making art. The oldest member is a native of Spartanburg. The others came from Massachusetts, North Carolina and Georgia. We all enjoy painting."

"First you look. You search for your composition. Or you sit, observe and find a composition that feels right and interesting," Turner said. "The view and surroundings become yours. This position can be outside in the fresh air or inside. It can be comfortable, blazing hot or numbing cold. Being up close with the experience has its rewards. Perhaps the extremes or pleasantness will show and really make your art relevant, especially when you view your painting and relive the moment. Observers may get a feel or an identity with your expression."

"The process of painting never really took hold of me during most of my life. I wasn't passionate about it," Link said. "As an artist I am more of a maker of things, not so much a painter. The images in my head that push me to work are always three-dimensional and the process and intricacies of how it will be constructed is the main challenge. That is until I travelled with two friends to a plein air watercolor workshop to Tahiti. I was hooked. Now, I love to paint, mostly outside on a sunny warm day. The experience of the outside is a draw as well as looking for the lights and darks, working fast and being spontaneous. The biggest draw though is sharing the experience with by painting buddies. It is such a pleasure to go paint with friends. We laugh, share and see how each person paints the same area completely different."

West Main Artists Co-op is a non-profit arts agency in Spartanburg that is dedicated to local artists and art. It provides affordable studio space to its member artists, as well as a retail outlet and several galleries to sell and showcase their work. The facility has the most extensive collection of locally made artwork for sale in Spartanburg, and it includes pottery, jewelry, paintings, sculptures, prints, quilts, and other artistic creations. In addition to hosting three different exhibits each month, the Co-op also provides public workshops.

Rensing Center's Library in Pickens, SC, Offers Installation by Susan Lenz - July 12, 2018

On Thursday, July 12, 2018, from 6-8pm, The Rensing Center's Library at 1165 Mile Creek Road in Pickens, SC, will host a public art reception for Susan Lenz's large-scale fiber installation, The Cocoon.

As one of the Rensing Center's summer session residents, Lenz spent five weeks transforming her enormous collection of vintage household linens, antique garments, and assorted old fabrics into a soft enclosure. Built on a pipe assemblage structure purchased through a South Carolina Arts Commission quarterly grant, this unique space became an ideal location in which visitors can share family stories of past stitching relatives, learn to attach a button, and find inspiration for their own treasured textiles.

Lenz is from Columbia, SC, but needed both time and space in which to create her installation. "Because I'd been to the Rensing Center in 2015, I knew the location would be perfect for my needs. I'm so very happy to have been accepted for this opportunity. It's such a pleasure to work with a view to nature and to be surrounded by people supporting my vision," says Lenz.

The stash of vintage linens came from yard sales, thrift stores, and auctions. They are the unfinished quilt tops, fabric napkins, calendar dish towels, and the typical Grandma's doilies. By stitching these things into 8' panels, Lenz has created a setting straight out of yesteryear but with a 21st century twist.

Lenz continues with, "My hope is that

Part of the installation by Susan Lenz in progress

mothers can show daughters how to thread a needle, and that fathers can point out memories from their childhood. This installation pays homage to all those anonymous makers who filled their homes with comfort. Yet, it is also a place to take a stitch, add another doily or piece of lace, without having to follow any hard-and-fast quilting or sewing rules. Anything goes!"

The reception is family friendly. Unlike some museum art receptions where photos are forbidden, Lenz encourages selfies and social media coverage. This installation is meant to be shared widely. It is meant to inspire visitors to use their own precious possessions.

The Rensing Center is pleased to host this event and hopes many come for inspiration and especially for the concept of reusing rather than replacing functional objects.

Latin American Contemporary Art (LaCa) Projects in Charlotte, NC, Celebrates 5th Anniversary

The Latin American Contemporary Art (LaCa) Projects in Charlotte, NC, is pleased to present its Fifth Anniversary Collective, on view through Aug. 13, 2018. This group show features nine selected artists, who have exhibited with the gallery since its opening in March 2013, and LaCa Projects celebrates its fifth year in operation.

The category of Latin American contemporary art, based on the origins of its artists, was formally established in approximately 1970. It has since emerged as one of the most important and influential in the evolution of the globalized contemporary art market, in spite of its broadly generalized categorization and continued challenge of being a less-recognized force as compared to more popular geographical originations.

In addition to the vast cultural differences between its 33 nations, which adds weight to its significance, the evidence of its importance has recently been reinforced by the establishment of departments and curators dedicated to collecting, researching, and exhibiting Latin American art in many major museums and art institutions across Europe and North America, including Tate Britain (London), The Museum of Modern Art (New York), The Museum of Fine Arts (Houston) and the Hammer Museum (Los Angeles).

Additionally, the most recent edition of Pacific Standard Time, an initiative of the Getty with arts organizations throughout Southern California, was titled PST: LA/LA - A Celebration Beyond Borders. It was the largest initiative ever assembled to focus on Latin American and Latino Art, with the participation of over 70 art institutions throughout Los Angeles and Southern California.

Fifth Anniversary Collective at LaCa Projects highlights the exceptional talents of nine artists, all whose distinctive styles and approaches have been influenced by their identities as Latin American artists.

Included in this exhibition will be works by Eduardo Cardozo (Uruguay), Juan Dolhare (Argentina), Carlos Estévez (Cuba), Vicente Hernández (Cuba), Santiago Quesnel (Argentina), Cristina Toro (Puerto Rico), as well as artists Karina Juárez, Alejandra Laviada, and Humberto Rios, who were presented during the LaCa Projects segment of the Charlotte-wide In Focus: Contemporary Photography in Mexico exhibition in Sept. 2017.

Some works offer responses to past or present social or political environments in each of their respective native countries; others offer invitations into the artists' passions, psyches, and deeply personal experiences, from their childhoods to present-day. While thematic concepts range greatly, the common impression is the level of sophistication, complexity, and form from which these artists create, offering the viewer a heightened sense of awareness of the social and material conditions that surrounded these artists in the past, and the contemporary realities of a 21st century artist.

ClearWater Artist Studios in Concord, NC, Presents Global Art Project, Live Collaborative Paintings

ClearWater Artist Studios in Concord, NC, is pleased to be collaborating with local artist/ curator, Mikel Frank, to realize an exciting and unique art exhibit and related events entitled Visual Strategies: A Collaborative Project, on view in ClearWater's Main Gallery from July 1 through Aug. 2018.

The opening reception with a Live Painting Event will be held on July 1, from 3-5:30pm. Selected artists participating in the show will create a painting, live, on large-format paper in the gallery.

The show is being organized and co-curated by Frank who recently moved to Charlotte from the New York City area and a 29-year career at the Metropolitan Museum of Art, and now serves as an adjunct art instructor at Rowan-Cabarrus Community College and collaborating curator and artist, Carl Heyward, founder of the Global Art Project, who resides in Northern California.

Participating members of the Global Art Project (GAP) are shipping their collaboratively constructed artworks in from all over the world for the exhibit, and there will be three live-collaborative-painting events open to the public. One is open for anyone to participate in. Check

701 Center for Contemporary Art in Columbia, SC, Features Works by Yvette Cummings

701 Center for Contemporary Art in Columbia, SC, will present the Solo Exhibition: 701 CCA Prize 2016 Winner, featuring works by Yvette L. Cummings, on view from July 12 through Aug. 26, 2018. A reception will be held on July 12, from 7-9pm. Reception Admission: members, free; non-members, $5 suggested donation.

This solo exhibition will feature work created throughout the duration of Cummings' residency. The show will be comprised of two-dimensional paintings and installations.

Conway, SC, artist Yvette L. Cummings won the 701 CCA Prize 2016 for South Carolina artists 40 years and younger. Cummings was announced as the winner during the Dec. 1, 701 CCA Prize Celebration at Columbia's 701 Center for Contemporary Art. The winner was announced by Tristan Weinkle and Corinne Goldberg of exhibition sponsor South Carolina Veterinary Specialists and Emergency Care in front of an audience of some 150 people.

"Cummings is an outstanding winner of this year's Prize," 701 CCA board chair Wim Roefs said. "She won in a highly competitive field of contestants that included two other excellent finalists, Colleen Critcher and Jena Thomas." Critcher is from Hartsville and was, like Cummings, selected for last year's 701 CCA South Carolina Biennial. Thomas is from Spartanburg, where she arrived from Florida earlier this year to teach at Converse College.

As the winner, Cummings received a six-week, paid residency at 701 CCA; this solo exhibition at 701 CCA; and an ad in a national art magazine.

Cummings in 2015 was selected for the 701 CCA South Carolina Biennial and for Contemporary South at Visual Art Exchange in Raleigh, NC. Also in 2015, she had a solo exhibition at Black Creek Arts Gallery in Hartsville, SC. Other solo shows were at South Carolina State University in Orangeburg, SC, and City Art the Pickens County (SC) Museum of Art and History, the Anderson (SC) Arts Center and the Durham (NC) Art Guild. Cummings holds an MFA and a Graduate Certificate in Museum Studies from the University of Cincinnati in Ohio and a BFA from Kendal College. She also studied at the Studio Arts Center International in Florence, Italy.

The 701 CCA Prize's purpose is to identify and recognize young South Carolina artists whose work is exemplary in its originality, shows awareness of artistic developments and is of high artistic merit. "All three finalists easily matched the criteria," board chair Roefs said, "as did many of the artists who submitted a portfolio for the judge's consideration but didn't make it to the finals." This year's installment was the third 701 CCA Prize event.

"With the 701 CCA Prize, 701 Center for Contemporary Art has added a crucial component to the eco-system for artists and the visual arts in South Carolina," Roefs said. "Prior to this 701 CCA initiative, the state did not have a prominent event to highlight the best young talent in South Carolina."

This solo exhibition will feature work created throughout the duration of Cummings' residency that explores themes outlined in detail above. The show will be comprised of two-dimensional paintings and installations.

Western Carolina University in Cullowhee, NC, Offers Glass Exhibit During WNC's Summer of Glass

Western Carolina University in Cullowhee, NC, is presenting Glass Catalyst: Littleton's Legacy in Contemporary Sculpture, a new exhibition of glass sculpture, on view at the WCU Fine Art Museum at Bardo Arts Center, through Dec. 7, 2018.

Celebrating the efforts of Harvey Littleton, one of the greatest proponents of using glass as an expressive medium, the exhibition explores the work of contemporary artists concentrating in glass and how they are building off the foundations laid by Littleton during the early years of the Studio Glass Movement. A key work in the exhibition will be a new acquisition to the Museum's collection: a glass sculpture by Harvey Littleton entitled Terracotta Arc.

Alex Bernstein, "Aqua Fin", cast and cut glass, fused steel, 21 x 21 x 2.75 inches, photographed by Steve Mann novation, and even knitters will especially enjoy this display of works ranging from cast figures to blown glass to delicate lamp-worked forms.

The majority of the artists in the exhibition represent a younger generation of glass sculptors who did not directly work with or study under Littleton, yet each of them, like Littleton, works glass to its fullest potential by creatively expanding the medium. All of the artists represented in the exhibition take a conceptual approach to their work, ushering glass beyond the functional realm where its traditional roots lie. Carol Milne, for example, constructs intricate networks of knitted glass that symbolize social structures and speak to the power of solidarity, while Hayden Wilson's Drones are giant "paper" airplanes fashioned in glass that evoke childhood memories of play and also look critically at episodes of violence in our culture.

Born to a physicist who worked at Corning Glass Works, Harvey Littleton encountered glass in a factory setting at an early age. Believing that glass had creative potential outside its applications in industry, Littleton set out to make it possible for artists to experiment with Donated by the Littleton Family in honor of WCU Professor Emeritus Joan Falconer Byrd, this sculpture serves as a focal point in the exhibition and a reminder of how Littleton's impact reverberates through the generations. Artists featured in the exhibition include: Alex Bernstein, Carol Milne, Hayden Wilson, Matt Eskuche, Shane Fero, Robert Burch, Carmen Lozar, Carole Frève, Einar and Jamex de la Torre, Shayna Leib, and Dean Allison. glass in their individual studios. He built a small-scale furnace and other equipment that could be used for blowing glass. This initial experimentation inspired Littleton to share his findings with others.

In 1962, Littleton led a watershed glass workshop at the Toledo Museum of Art that would eventually spark the creation of glass programs at universities, craft schools, and art centers throughout the world. He is often credited with making information about glass widely available. Coming out of an era when glass techniques and formulas were concentrated in Europe and largely kept secret, Littleton took a democratic, and arguably American, approach to his art form by sharing ideas and techniques freely amongst a community of interested artists. His efforts led to the elevation of glass as an art form and the creation of a viable market for artists working in glass.

Glass Catalyst is being held as part of the Summer of Glass initiative, which is happening in conjunction with the Dale Chihuly exhibition at Biltmore Estate

Asheville Gallery of Art in Asheville, NC, Features Works by Bee Adams

Asheville Gallery of Art in Asheville, NC, will present Bright & Bold, featuring works by Bee Adams, on view from July 1 - 31, 2018. A reception will be held on July 6, from 5-8pm.

The exhibition will feature the work of Bee Adams, whose dynamic, colorful paintings simultaneously tease and delight the eye.

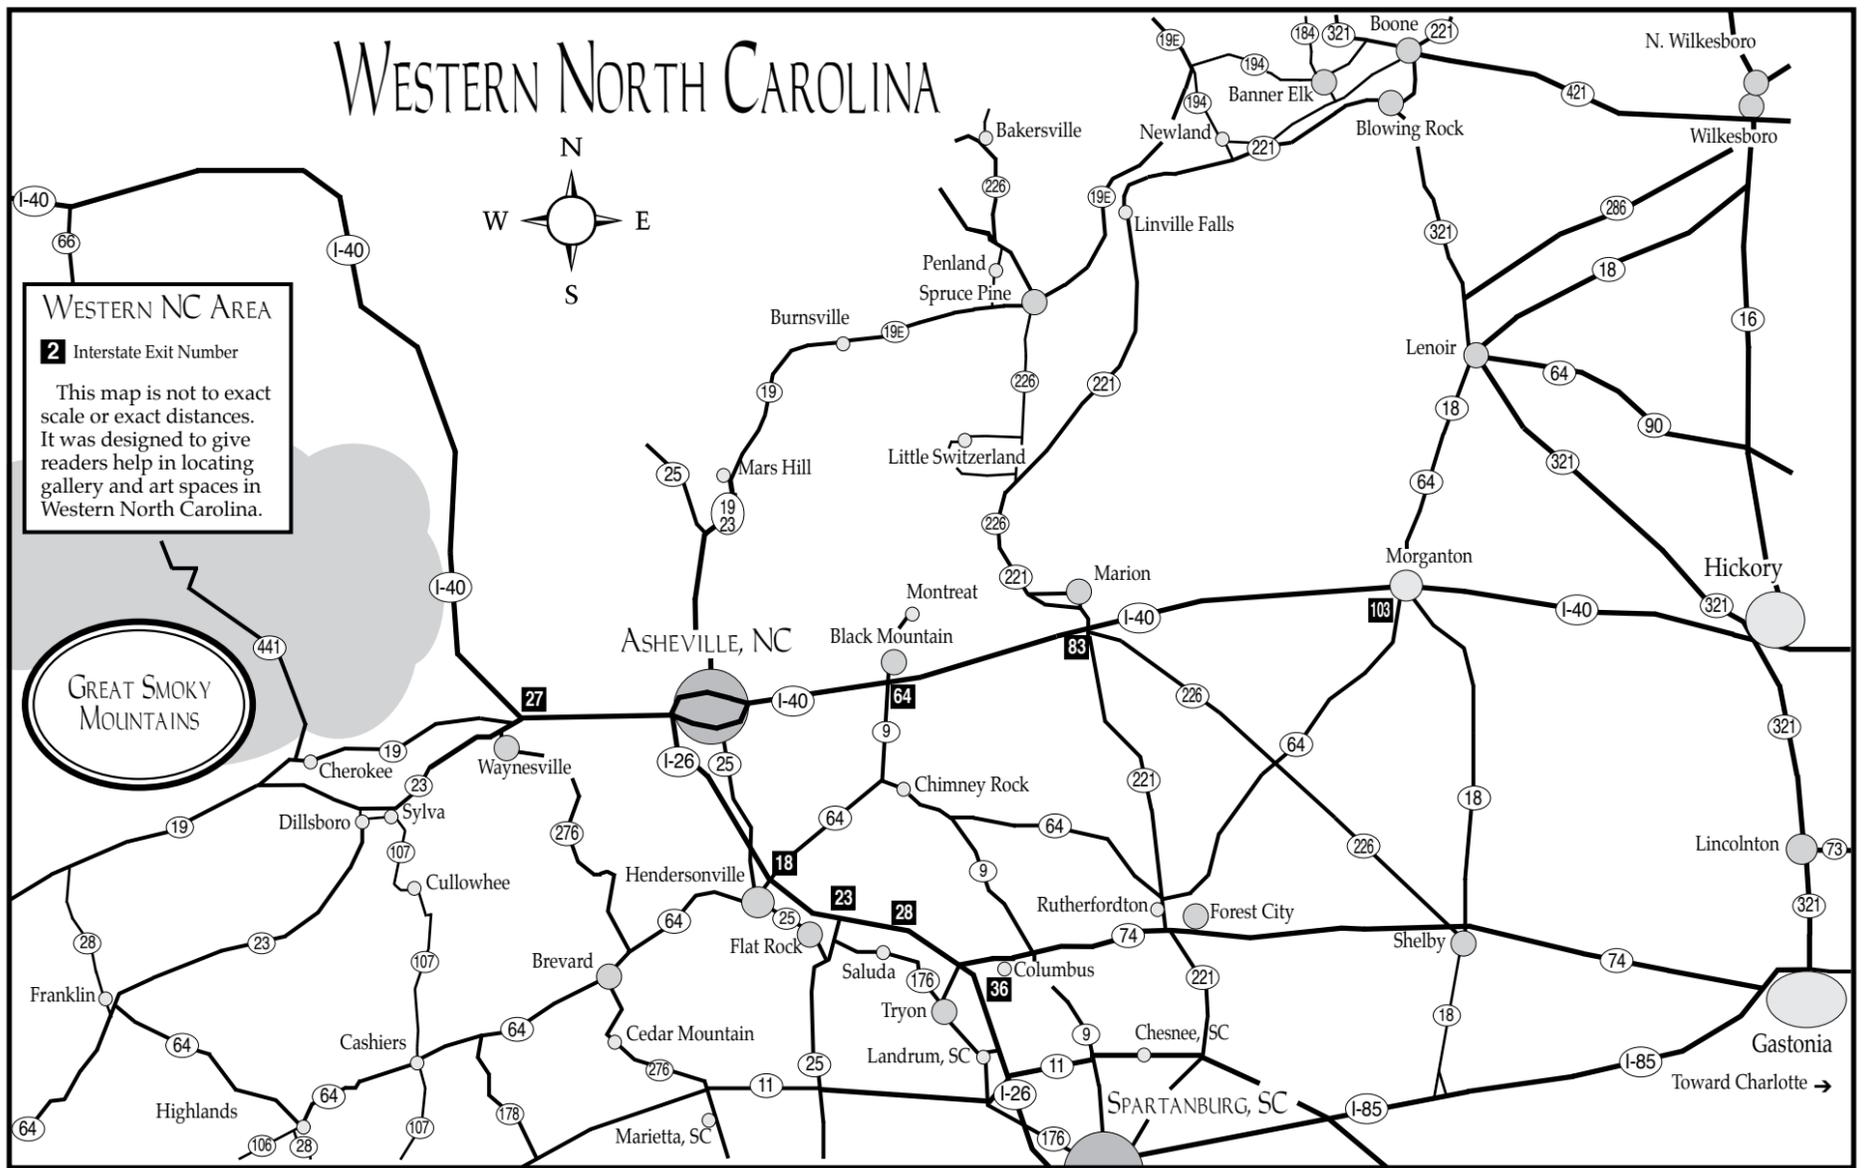

From iconic local landmarks to tobacco barns, florals, and abstracts, the artist creates signature works that are masterfully executed in exuberant colors. "I do love color and use it freely in my paintings. I like keeping my paintings fresh and exciting and use a variety of mediums in that process," she says. Whatever her subject, she is fearless in her interpretations. "My paintings aren't careful architectural renderings, but vibrant celebrations that allow the viewer to encounter the familiar anew."

Work by Bee Adams

Prior to relocating to Asheville six years ago, Adams was active in the Denver art scene for over 40 years, including solo showings at the Denver Center for the Performing Arts and the National Center for Atmospheric Research in Boulder. She also lived in Brussels where she "took particular joy in capturing the intricate buildings

Pink Dog Creative Gallery in Asheville, NC, Offers Works by Morgan Santander

Pink Dog Creative Gallery in Asheville, NC, is presenting Morgan Santander: Recent Paintings, a solo exhibition of paintings by Morgan Santander, on view through July 28, 2018.

This exhibition comprises of a selection of recent paintings from two distinct bodies of work. Floral still life paintings, reminiscent of the classical Dutch tradition, are juxtaposed with images from Santander’s series Beyond Reconstitution. Santander’s narrative paintings, Beyond Reconstitution, both challenge as well as reconfigure the roles and the significance of traditional historical genre painting. The combination of these two bodies of work are intended to be both unsettling and playful.

Mexican-born visual artist and arts educator, Morgan Santander, grew up in Mexico, the United Kingdom, and the United States. Santander studied visual arts at the University of California, Berkeley. He completed his graduate work in fine arts at the University of Chicago. For twelve years, Santander served as Professor of Graduate and Undergraduate Painting at the Savannah College of Art and Design. Since moving to North Carolina in 2014, Santander has taught art and art history at Warren Wilson College and at Blue Ridge Community College. Santander’s art studio is located at the Marshall High Studios in Madison County.

Santander offers the following statement: “Just for fun, imagine dumping random shit from an entire museum collection into the Large Hadron Collider at CERN. Now imagine pressing the red GO button!”

“If this could be done, it would produce a magnificent symphony of colorful explosions. In turn, these bursts would release massive amounts of information in the form of pure compressed energy. If this could be done, it would reveal never-before-seen and highly complex data sets,” adds Santander.

Work by Morgan Santander

“Beyond Reconstitution aims to capture and interpret the data that results from the blasting of paintings, sculptures, masks, tapestries, and all other cultural artifacts, from different times and cultures, and colliding them at light speed.”

“Beyond Reconstitution reconstructs and gives meaning to this data by organizing and harnessing fresh interpretations. It encourages the viewer to re-evaluate culture, both present and past. It manipulates, disrupts, and at times even clarifies our limited and relative historical perception.”

“Traditional pictorial passages in Beyond Reconstitution are reconfigured, spun, set on their heads, enlarged, shattered, dwarfed, combined, and isolated to create new and meaningful narratives. The stories they tell bring to the surface, among other things, the tensions concealed within our post-colonial condition. These collisions reveal alternate cosmic dimensions hidden within even the deepest cracks of our human existence. Once deciphered and reconstituted these images dare us to press past our accepted sense of reality. These narratives jolt our superficial sense of cultural and social hierarchy.”

“Beyond Reconstitution thrusts our knowledge of the world, as it has been fed to us, into the realm of the beyond,” says Santander. “In this new and complex world

Upstairs Artspace in Tryon, NC, Offers Three New Exhibitions

Midway through its 40th anniversary year, the Upstairs Artspace in Tryon, NC, sponsors three new exhibits for 11 artists well established in the Carolinas, the Southeast and throughout the United States.

Four Women/Four Journeys, features abstract and impressionistic paintings by Bonnie Bardos of Saluda, NC, Patricia Cole-Ferullo and Linda Hudgins of Tryon, NC, and Carol Beth Icard, of Landrum, SC, and is on view through Aug. 3, 2018.

The women typically express their spiritual and mental journeys through bold, colorful art. All are widely exhibited in regional galleries and private and public collections.

Thoughtful Forms: Stone, Wood, Clay, Steel, on view through Aug. 3, showcases dramatic floor and wall sculpture by Mark Gardner, Stoney Lamar, Dale McEntire, Shane Varnadore, Dale Weiler and David Zacharias, all residents of Polk County in NC.

Gardner and Lamar are nationally known and celebrated wood-turners in major museums, galleries and collections. Varnadore is fast growing his reputation as a turner. McEntire and Zacharias, acclaimed artists and art teachers, sculpt thoughtful, powerful pieces with clay, wood, stone, metal - even glass. Weiler, a highly regarded wildlife sculptor, works mostly in stone.

Holland Van Gores: Polychrome Turnings, on view through Aug. 3, features the artist's signature wood-turned vessels made

Mica Gallery in Bakersville, NC, is Ready for Action This Summer with New Artists, New Works and a Glass Exhibition

The planters overflow with flowers at Mica's entrance creating a colorful welcome for visitors preparing to enter through the gallery's bright yellow doors. Inside, visitors are greeted with work by some of the best studio artists in the area. From the whimsical clay sugar and creamer sets and teapots of Jenny Lou Sherburne, or the carefully constructed candelabras of Gay Smith, to the stylish hand dyed scarves of Carmen Grier and the meticulously crafted cast and slumped glass trays by Simona Rosasco and JJ Brown, Mica has something to offer everyone.

Mica continues to invite area artists to display their work for limited periods. In concert with the Summer of Glass events in Asheville and the surrounding area, Mica will feature the work of glassblower Colin O'Reilly, on view through Aug. 22, 2018. O'Reilly, the 2016 overall winner of "Garden & Gun's Seventh Annual Made in the South" awards with his beautiful crystal whiskey decanter and glasses. O'Reilly focuses on crafting functional and elegant objects. "It's the heat, the physicality of it," he says when explaining his attraction to the medium, "you can blow it, cast it and grind it but the final product is this fragile, beautiful thing." Visit Mica to see O'Reilly's whiskey and cocktail sets, snifters and one-of-a-kind pieces, and an exciting and extensive collection of work by distinguished local artists.

tive gallery create a beautiful and inviting environment and are a strong community of makers sharing a belief that incorporating handmade objects into one's daily life adds a human touch not found in manufactured objects. Whether drinking your morning coffee out of a stoneware mug, carrying your groceries in a beautiful cloth bag, or falling in love with one of Pam Brewer's sensuous hand-built animal figures, these objects can make everyday tasks feel special.

New to Mica this year is an area displaying ceramic place settings for those interested in custom dinnerware. There is a wide range of shapes and colors from which to choose. Setting up a wedding registry for dinnerware or general gifts is also possible at Mica. Mica member Jon Ellenbogen says, "The dinnerware I make is a labor of love because I feel honored that someone has chosen the work of my hands and heart to grace their table."

Also new to Mica is Wine-Down-Fridays, pop up affairs which happen periodically and are announced on Facebook and Instagram. Plan to enjoy a glass of wine, tasty nibbles and lively conversation while exploring this wonderful gallery.

The Art Cellar Gallery in Banner Elk, NC, Features Works by Gregory Smith and Tim Turner

The Art Cellar Gallery in Banner Elk, NC, will present Variations on a Theme, featuring works by Gregory Smith and Tim Turner, on view from July 5 - 28, 2018. A reception will be held on July 7, from 4-6pm.

The exhibit will feature abstract painted works from both artists. Gregory Smith will be showing 24 alterations of the same composition, from small to large paintings. This concept was inspired by the 24 variations of "Rhapsody on a Theme of Paganini" by Sergei Rachmaninoff. Tim Turner's work is often a variation of an idea. Using and reusing canvases, Turner builds onto his paintings, creating shape and texture by using scraps of canvas from paintings that, "didn't make the cut." These two artists showing together will thrill and excite any viewer. From color to technique, this will be a show you don't want to miss.

Smith grew up in the Matney Community near Valle Crucis, NC, where he still lives and works today. His body of work includes paintings of rural landscapes, barns, and old homes; many of which are community and personal landmarks. Smith's inspiration comes from the physical properties of paint and he is known for his richly detailed trompe l'oeil paintings ("to fool the eye"). His work reflects his deep familiarity and understanding of his subjects and his mastery of technique as he captures atmosphere and emotion on canvas. Smith attended Appalachian State University where he majored in Art.

Work by Gregory Smith

Turner, a native to North Carolina and Appalachian State Graduate, creates dynamic, gestural abstract canvases filled with passion, strong form, and expressive color. His focus is on large scale abstracts that are influenced by "poetry, love, anger, the weather, pretty much the nuances of everyday life." Turner states his paintings often take on a life of their own, from the artists experience of creation to the finished works evoking reaction from others.

The Art Cellar Gallery will also feature two Sunday Artist Talks in July. Noyes Capehart is back in his annual talk, Sunday, July 15, from 2-4pm. "An Approach to the Meaning of Art" will feature recent works by Noyes Capehart and he will lead us through his inspirations and "meanings" behind his art and other works of art. "Visual Energy" our second Sunday Artist talk featuring Zoey Brookshire will be featured Sunday, July 29, from 2-4pm. She will talk about recent works, inspiration and the release of her new book, "Visual Energy".

The Art Cellar Gallery features North Carolina artists while including select artists from across the Southeast, showing work from large scale canvases to smaller works on paper as well as sculpture, glass and clay. A high country arts destination celebrating 26 seasons, The Art Cellar Gallery is located on Hwy. 184 in Banner Elk.

Burroughs-Chapin Art in Myrtle Beach, SC, Celebrates a World of Water in Summer Exhibitions

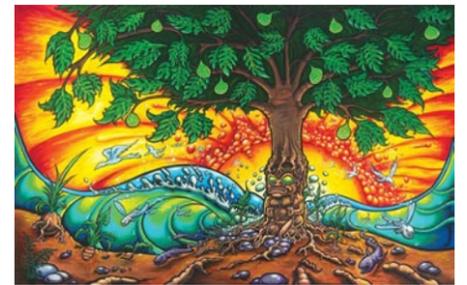

Just in time for summer, the Franklin G. Burroughs-Simeon B. Chapin Art Museum in Myrtle Beach, SC, will present Making Waves: A Drew Brophy Retrospective, featuring paintings, surfboards and a variety of other art forms from the internationally renowned surf artist. The exhibit, which includes over 70 pieces of art spanning more than 30 years will be on view through Sept. 16, 2018. Making Waves includes paintings, sketches and painted surfboards, including many on loan from collectors around the country. The exhibition will fill seven first floor galleries in the Museum.

World renowned surf artist Drew Brophy dreamed of being a professional surfer, traveling the globe surfing big waves while using his artwork to support his surf adventures. But over time, he received more and more commissions to create art, and a new passion - and a lifetime career - was born.

Far from simply a surfer who dabbled in art, Brophy began early in his career to study the physics of weather, particularly its effects on waves. A breakthrough in the development of Brophy's surfboard art was his creation of the technique of using Japanese-made Uni Posca paint pens. Brophy has painted thousands of surfboards all over the world with these pens and shared his discovery with other artists - even giving them a supply of paint pens to get started. His technique has since become widely adopted.

In recent years, Brophy undertook studies in "sacred geometry," which ascribes symbolic and sacred meanings to certain geometric shapes and proportions as they are used in the design and construction of religious structures and monuments. Many of these symbols became the basis of his more abstract, free-form designs.

From making custom surfboards - which are still commissioned and collected in multiple countries - Brophy expanded to making detailed illustrations for products such as skateboards, wakeboards, boogie boards and apparel as his art become synonymous with the beach lifestyle. His art has been featured on magazine covers, in television shows and books and is also sought after by collectors.

Visitors to the exhibit will be able to observe Brophy's maturation as an artist, as if watching his career in time-lapse photography. "In the retrospective exhibit, people will be able to see the progression of my work as they walk from room to room," Brophy writes. "(Each of the) seven rooms will represent a place in time."

While much of Brophy's art is based on the geometry of ancient symbols, his work overall displays a deep respect and reverence for the natural world. "Feeling the heartbeat of the planet, the wind, the waves, the heat of the sun; all makes me feel connected to the Universe," he writes.

Concurrently at the Museum is an exhibition titled The Water's Fine, featuring striking, large-scale works by five contemporary artists depicting people in water - swimming, floating, body-surfing or just contemplating getting in - in black-and-white photography and hyperrealistic painting.

Fine Art at Baxters in New Bern, NC, Features Works by David Goldhagen and Holly Nettles

Fine Art at Baxters in New Bern, NC, will present Glass Sculpture & Painting, featuring works by David Goldhagen and Holly Nettles, on view from July 13 through Aug. 31, 2018. A reception will be held on July 13, from 5-8pm during the downtown Art Walk.

David Goldhagen's sculptural forms and massive hand-blown glass platters are distinguished by his unique style. His painterly approach to art glass marries bold colors to brilliant, clear crystal in a clean, modern style.

Using traditional glassblowing methods thousands of years old, Goldhagen creates each piece individually, working with molten glass at temperatures in excess of 2000°F. His pieces capture a palette that moves from subtle to bold by the incorporation of bits of colored glass made from various mixtures of metallic oxides and rare earth elements, such as silver, cobalt, gold, copper, diachronic and others.

Holly Nettles is known for her vibrant impressionistic paintings inspired by nature and simple pleasures. She has a passion for using expressive color and abstracting landscapes and her work brings to life the emotional connection to places and experiences. The bold brushwork and pallet knife give her work both energetic and peaceful qualities.

She seeks to highlight and preserve the fragile and precious treasures of North Carolina.

Scott is a photographer of 50 years, whose work started with the "Concerned Photographers Series", documenting the social activism of the 60's and 70's. His large black and white canvas prints depicts the coming of age social awareness of the time, and reveals a relevance in today's political climate.

The Craven Arts Council & Gallery is also proud to present the work of Ryan Fox in the Director's Gallery at Bank of the Arts. Fox, an accomplished batik watercolorist based out of Raleigh, NC, has won national acclaim for bold colors and contrast.

Fox's work makes use of the batik technique, using wax to seal areas of lighter color as the artist adds darker tones to piece. Traditionally used for fabric, Fox applies it to watercolors allowing him to preserve areas of bright white, yellows, and reds for high contrast and precision not often seen in watercolor.

Ryan is a signature member of the American Watercolor Society, as well as the state societies of Georgia, Illinois, Pennsylvania, Missouri, and North Carolina. He has won numerous awards on the state and national levels, and been featured in publications such as the Water- color Artist Magazine and Splash hardcover books. Fox was the juror of the "2018 Twin Rivers Artists Association Exhibition at Bank of the Arts", and will be holding a workshop on his batik techniques at the Bank of the Arts in late July.

Sunset River Marketplace in Calabash, NC, Offers Exhibit Focused on Boats

Sunset River Marketplace in Calabash, NC, is presenting Float Your Boat, a group show focused on boats, on view through July 28, 2018.

The collection of 20-plus paintings pays homage to the coastal love affair with boats, be they recreational or work-related.

Says gallery owner Ginny Lassiter, "We're located in a coastal fishing village. Everyone's drawn to the water – our artists, our visitors and our locals. Paintings that feature boats and beaches or other coastal scenes are always in great demand, and our artists do a beautiful job. They're so talented."

Participating artists include Marcus McClanahan, Ann Parks McCray, Ortrud Tyler, Louis Aliotta, Richard Staat, Rachel Sunnell, Henry "Hank" Pulkowski, Yuriy Petrov, Karen Casciani, Freeman Beard, Mary E. Smith and Ann Lees, among others.

"We hope y'all come by," Lassiter invites. "There's going to be a lot of beautiful work here."

Sunset River Marketplace showcases work by approximately 150 North and South Carolina artists, and houses some 10,000 square feet of oils, acrylics, watercolors, pastels, mixed media, art glass, fabric art, home décor, pottery, sculpture, turned and carved wood and artisan-created jewelry. There are two on site kilns and four wheels used by students in the ongoing pottery classes offered by the gallery. A custom on-site framing department is available. There are realistic and abstract art classes as well as workshops by nationally and regionally known artists. A Coffee With the Authors lecture series features presentations by local and regional authors.

Gallery C in Raleigh, NC, Offers Work from Estate of Harry De Maine

Gallery C in Raleigh, NC, is presenting Watercolor Paintings from the Estate of Harry De Maine (1880 – 1952), on view through July 31, 2018.

Harry De Maine was born in Liverpool, England in 1880. He spent time in Bolton Abbey, Yorkshire as a small boy. De Maine took his first formal art instruction at the Liverpool City Art School in 1903. In 1908 Harry De Maine then went on to study in London and at the Julian Academy in Paris. He exhibited at the Paris Salons from 1908-1913.

In 1919, De Maine moved to the United States, living in Boston and New York City. He received inspiration for much of his work from long summers spent in the environs of Gloucester, Massachusetts.

While watercolor was his favorite medium, De Maine received prizes in both watercolor and oil. A Washington Post review once said "he transferred to America...the lyrical quality of the English landscape." He exhibited widely, but primarily in New York and New England.

UNC-Chapel Hill in Chapel Hill, NC, Offers Exhibit Focused on Portraiture

UNC-Chapel Hill in Chapel Hill, NC, is presenting The Outwin: American Portraiture Today, on view at the Ackland Art Museum, through Aug. 26, 2018.

We live in a culture that is shaped by social media. We play with identity through technology, which both connects us and isolates us. It is no wonder the genre of portraiture is experiencing renewed significance and thriving in the contemporary art world. As a genre, portraiture is akin to the raw, direct nature of a journal entry, often revealing aspects of the sitter's identity that are messy or complicated or even artfully concealing the truth. It is the most personal - and certainly the most psychological - of art forms. As a viewer, we step into the relationship between the artist and the subject. Whether an artist is creating a visual autobiography, delving deeper into a relationship, or getting to know someone, the resulting portrait shows us a private world.

Every three years, the Smithsonian's National Portrait Gallery invites artists to participate in the most prestigious portrait contest in the country: the juried Outwin Boochever Portrait Competition. In 2016, its fourth iteration, jurors selected 43 winning works from more than 2,500 entries. The resulting exhibition has become a pivotal marker because, for the first time ever, the Portrait Gallery has sent it on tour. The Ackland Art Museum is honored to host The Outwin: American Portraiture Today and will be the exhibition's final venue.

The first-prize winner of the 2016 Out- win Boochever Portrait Competition, Amy Sherald has gained significant prominence recently as the commissioned artist for the official portrait of former First Lady Michelle Obama. The Outwin marks Sherald's return to UNC-Chapel Hill; she had her first solo exhibition in 2011 at UNC's Sonya Haynes Stone Center for Black Culture and History.

NC Museum of History in Raleigh, NC, Offers Works by Ernie Barnes

The NC Museum of History in Raleigh, NC, is presenting The North Carolina Roots of Artist Ernie Barnes, a new exhibit showcasing original paintings by and artifacts from the life Ernie Barnes, a native North Carolinian and NFL football player who became one of the nation's foremost African-American artists, on view through Mar. 3, 2019.

Widely-known as the real painter behind the character J.J. Evans' artwork in the groundbreaking African-American sitcom Good Times, Barnes' unique style of painting made him one of the premier figurative artists of the late 20th and early 21st centuries. His style, which has been widely imitated, is best exemplified by his celebrated Sugar Shack dance scene that appeared on Marvin Gaye's I Want You album cover and in the closing credits of Good Times.

"Although I never got a chance to meet Ernie in person, I was so honored to be able to work on this exhibit- because now I feel like I do know him," said exhibit curator Katie Edwards. "He was a remarkable human being who defied odds and became a renowned artist. This exhibit is an amazing opportunity for the state of North Carolina. It's a chance for visitors to see a number of Barnes' works that he painted throughout his life and see the impact that the state had on him and his career."

The unique The North Carolina Roots of Artist Ernie Barnes exhibit will showcase unpublished Ernie Barnes original paintings, as well as artifacts from his life.

Barnes was born and raised in Durham, NC, and is best known for his unique style of elongation, energy, and movement. Affectionately nicknamed "Big Rembrandt" by his teammates, he is the first professional American athlete to become a noted painter. In his prolific body of work, Barnes chronicled his personal experiences with football, music, dance, love, sports, education, church, and the South.

Born July 15, 1938, Barnes grew up in Durham (Durham County). Shy, sensitive, and bullied throughout childhood, he sought refuge in his sketchbooks and eventually transformed his body and attitude through exercise and discipline. By high school, Barnes excelled as an athlete, and in his senior year at Durham's Hillside High School, he became the captain of the football team and state champion in the shot put.

Barnes graduated high school in 1956 with 26 athletic scholarship offers. Segregation, however, prevented him from considering nearby Duke University or the University of North Carolina. He attended the all-African American North Carolina College at Durham (formerly North Carolina College for Negroes; now North Carolina Central University), where he majored in art on a full athletic scholarship.

Barnes was selected in the 1960 National Football League draft by the Baltimore Colts. After five seasons as an offensive lineman, he retired in 1966 at age 28 to devote himself to art, eventually settling in Los Angeles. He died of cancer at age 70 on April 27, 2009.

"The estate is proud to kick-off Ernie Barnes' 80th birthday with his first public exhibition in 11 years," said Luz Rodriguez, Barnes' longtime personal assistant and friend. "I hope his fans - and those new to Ernie Barnes - discover more about his extraordinary career. Because of his unique path, his work is inspirational and important to American culture."

Hillsborough Gallery of Arts in Hillsborough, NC, Offers a New Exhibit

The Hillsborough Gallery of Arts in Hillsborough, NC, will present Common Ground, featuring works by Linda Carmel, Michele Yellin, Nell Chandler, and Evelyn Ward, on view from July 23 through Aug. 26, 2018. A reception will be held on July 27, from 6-9pm.

The paintings of Linda Carmel celebrate women and what they do every day to stabilize and support family and community. Her work points us toward a world in which women can take the lead in finding common ground, moving us away from this time of polarization, peril and uncertainty.

Carmel writes, "We can see things happening that might point the way for our country. Record numbers of women are running for office in this year's elections. The most effective challenge to the NRA is being led by adolescents who are furious at the adult world's valuing assault rifles over their lives."

Carmel's paintings in this show reflect her thoughts on the current predicament American society is facing. "My work illuminates how women can help heal a torn community. This series points toward a time of compassion for all of humanity and a respect for the Earth. With a positive attitude and with humor, I offer my perspective to the viewer."

Carmel adds, "My paintings have sculpted surfaces. You can actually feel the peaks and valleys that add nuance to the imagery. I encourage people to touch these canvasses so that they can connect with the themes on a deeper level."

Work by Michele Yellin

Jewelry artist Nell Chandler writes, "When we first decided to call our show Common Ground, I associated the title with us: four women. As artists we definitely share a common sensibility. We are kindred spirits."

"I then turned to the work that I would create for our show and I felt inspired by my friends to dig deeper into new techniques that I'd learned in recent years such as etched metal impressions on polymer clay, prisma colored pencils on copper, and torch enameling," adds Chandler. "I realized that I wanted to push myself to try to combine these techniques to make jewelry that reflected the common ground of these seemingly different styles."

Work by Linda Carmel

Painter Michele Yellin writes, "In life, what interests me most is finding a space where I can have a meeting of the minds and hearts with others. Sometimes I think that it is not unusual to feel isolated and alienated. With a little effort, it is easy to connect with others and share what we have in common - our dreams, our hopes, our lives and our values."

"The same is true for my artwork. I create work as an expression of my own inner and outer life. Once I put it out in the world, I am interested in other people connecting with, and finding that what I paint, is part of their lives as well," adds Yellin.

"My paintings evolve organically. I start by laying down texture and color to create a loose abstract field. The textures and colors suggest shapes and spaces, much like clouds creating shapes in the sky. Everything and anything is on that canvas, waiting to be found. I draw what I see, and begin painting. Some things stay, others are painted over, developing paintings that have many layers. Through this process, the painting begins to tell a story. It is how I discover and reveal my inner life."

For Common Ground Evelyn Ward is showing a selection of her twice-fired stoneware pottery; the decoration integrates representations of local native plants. Ward writes: "I enjoy making good, useful pots that someone will enjoy using every day." Her process for creating them is far from simple. Each piece passes through a labor intensive salt firing, and then a second electric kiln firing, which fastens ceramic decals of delicate plant drawings or photographs into place, and results in sepia-toned studies of seed pods or leaves contrasted against a rich, salt-glazed background.

The Hillsborough Gallery of Arts is owned and operated by 22 local artists and represents these established artists exhibiting contemporary fine art and fine craft. The Gallery's offerings include oil and acrylic paintings, pastels, sculpture, ceramics, photography, textiles, jewelry, glass, metals, encaustic, enamel, and wood.

Some Exhibits That Are Still On View

Our policy at Carolina Arts is to present a press release about an exhibit only once and then go on, but many major exhibits are on view for months. This is our effort to remind you of some of them.

Work by Luke Allsbrook

Hampton III Gallery in Taylors, SC, just minutes from downtown Greenville, is presenting A Sense of Place, featuring paintings by Luke Allsbrook, on view through July 21, 2018. Allsbrook received a BFA in Painting from Indiana University (Bloomington) and an MFA (cum laude) from The New York Academy of Art. His work has been exhibited in galleries and museums throughout the US and is included in the Forbes collection, Mercedes Benz, The US Department of State, and in the collection of His Royal Highness, The Prince of Wales. He has taught drawing and painting at the New York Academy of Art, The Lyme Academy of Art, William Paterson University, UNC-Asheville, and in Italy with the University of Georgia Cortona Program. For further information call the gallery at 864/268-2771 or visit (www.HamptonIIIGallery.com).

Diana Farfán, Iris, the Coyote Tamer, 2018, acrylics and mixed media on wood panel.

The Columbia Museum of Art in Columbia, SC, is presenting Ecós: Resonancias de Historias Latinas de Carolina del Sur (Echoes: Resonances of South Carolina Latino Stories) a collaborative multimedia art exhibition featuring the stories of Latino immigrants in the Lowcountry interpreted by 19 select Latino South Carolina visual artists, on view in the Community Gallery through July 22, 2018. Visitors to the exhibition have the opportunity to listen to each audio story and read its transcription as they view the artwork it inspired. Artists participating in this exhibition include: Dalia Delanuez, Ashley Daniela Garcia, Félix Maceda Baizabal, Yulia Martinez Escobar, Pedro Rodríguez, Maribel Acosta, Alejandro García-Lemos, Sammy Lopez, Paola Torres-Ruiz, Diana Farfán, Daniel Andreu, Aura Ramirez, Ninotchka Santamaria, Lauren Andreu, Steven Roldan, Carolina Mascarin, Oscar Soto Mitchell, Aldo Muzarelli, and Yelitza Diaz. For further information visit (www.columbiamuseum.org).

Lark & Key Gallery and Boutique in Charlotte, NC, is presenting Wandering Landscape, featuring paintings by Mary Alayne Thomas and ceramic works by Kelly Lynn Daniels, on view through July Page 26 - Carolina Arts, July 2018

Work by Mary Alayne Thomas

28, 2018. The exhibition features new paintings by Thomas, as she chronicles "dreamy recollections" from recent travels. Her colorful, multi-layered watercolor and encaustic paintings will be accompanied by guest ceramic artist, Daniels. Originally from Sante Fe, NM, Thomas currently lives in Portland, OR. These beautiful surroundings have always fueled her imagination. A native of California, Daniels received a Master of Fine Arts in ceramics at University of Massachusetts Dartmouth. Installation by Susan Lenz

Theatre Art Galleries (TAG) of High Point, NC, is presenting Anonymous Ancestors, an installation by Columbia, SC, artist, Susan Lenz, featured in the Upstairs Gallery, through Aug. 3, 2018. To stand within Lenz's installation, Anonymous Ancestors, is to become immersed in the myriad of family stories handed down through generations. Each snapshot is a frozen moment on life's timeline. Letters and words clipped from vintage print material allow one's mind to wander, envisioning forgotten friends, past holidays, ancient occasions, former cars and hilarious fashion trends. Yet, all the images are anonymous. The photos come from yard sales, auctions and thrift stores. For further information call TAG at 336/887-2137 or visit (www.tagart.org).

The Bechtler Museum of Modern Art in Charlotte, NC, is presenting Wrestling the Angel, an exhibition that examines how religion and sacred art appear in work made by seemingly secular, avant-garde artists, on view in the Fourth-floor Gallery through Sept. 9, 2018. The examples on view critically investigate the role of religion and spirituality as both a social component and as a visual language often implicitly present in daily life, even if the image is not explicitly referencing the original religious source. Religious practices and spiritual contemplation have been integral to object-making throughout recorded history. Many disciplines study the practice, but most stop abruptly with the modern era. Yet numerous artists over the last two centuries have acknowledged that a religious upbringing, spiritual practice, or sacred art impact their work, whether overtly or obliquely. This effect can be seen in diverse ways - aesthetically, thematically, and formally. For further information call the Museum at 704/353-9200 or visit (www.bechtler.org).

The Summer of Glass is taking place in Western North Carolina, through Oct. 2018 - coinciding with a new exhibition at the Biltmore Estate in Asheville, NC, of multi-media artist Dale Chihuly's monumental glass sculptures - the community will celebrate both the historical and contemporary context of glass and its talented artists in Western North Carolina. The Chihuly at Biltmore exhibition will be at the estate through Oct. 7, 2018. The exhibit will be on display in the Winter Garden of Biltmore House and the Estate's stunning gardens. For the first time, Biltmore will also host an evening experience in the gardens offering views of the sculptures after dark each Thursday through Sunday night. Alongside the Chihuly exhibition, the Asheville and regional glass community offers its own community-wide celebration of glass through special local exhibitions, tours, workshops and events. For further info about the Summer of Glass events visit (www.exploreasheville.com/summer-of-glass/).

Gibbes Museum of Art, 135 Meeting Street, Charleston. Gallery 9, Through Sept. 16 - "Printmaking: Process to Product". Spanning the sixteenth century to the present, this exhibition explores the breadth of the Gibbes print collection while focusing on the specific processes used to create the works. To help make connections between technique and the finished product, the installation pairs prints with rarely exhibited plates, blocks, and printmaking tools from the museum archives. Featured artists include master printmakers Albrecht Dürer, James Whistler, Robert Rauschenberg, Jasper Johns, and Kara Walker, among others. Gallery 8, Through Sept. 16 - "Radcliffe Bailey: Pensive". The installation showcases recent work by internationally renowned, Atlanta-based artist Radcliffe Bailey. A painter, sculptor, and mixed media artist, Bailey layers imagery, culturally resonant materials, and text to explore the themes of ancestry, race, and memory. Gallery 2, Through Oct. 21 - "Vanishing Charleston". As new buildings rise and construction cranes dot the horizon, Charleston's urban neighborhoods have undergone rapid change. The exhibition examines the evolving landscape of the city, including several buildings that no longer exist, through the work of eight artists. Gallery 3, Through Oct. 21 - "A Day at the Beach". Drawn from the Gibbes collection, this exhibition features images of ocean side relaxation and fun. From the serene to the comical, the works on view offer insight into American leisure in the twentieth century. Museum Shop - Now offering the inventory of the Tradd Street Press, reproductions of works by Elizabeth O'Neill Verner among other exhibit related art objects. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-5pm & Sun., 1-5pm; closed Mon. Admission: Yes. Contact: 843/722-2706 or at (www.gibbesmuseum.org).

Halsey Institute of Contemporary Art, The Marion and Wayland H. Cato Jr. Center for the Arts, College of Charleston School of the Arts, 161 Calhoun St., Charleston. Through July 7 - The Carrion Cheer: A Faunistic Tragedy, featuring an installation by Böhler & Orendt. German-based artist duo Böhler & Orendt will create an immersive installation in the galleries of the Halsey Institute. Naming it a "makeshift transdimensional stopover camp," the installation will consist of several tents through which viewers can walk. Each tent will feature an apparition of an extinct animal, such as a Steller's Sea Cow, the Carolina Parakeet, and the Pinta Island Tortoise, which will appear as a projection on a screen of mist. The extinct animals will appear in chorus to sing a song of forgiveness to humans for causing their ultimate extinction. The tents will also feature cave painting-like drawings of the animals' encounters with humans. Hours: Mon.-Sat., 11am-4pm and open till 7pm on Thurs. Contact: Mark Sloan at 843/953-4422 or at (www.halsey.cofc.edu).

Columbia Area

Columbia Museum of Art, Main & Hampton Streets, Columbia. Through July 22 - "Jane Peterson: At Home and Abroad." Peterson is the quintessential American impressionist — well-schooled in her craft and well-traveled, open to the possibilities of a changing world. Her work reveals the vibrancy of the early 20th century and mirrors the concerns of a rapidly changing art world. Peterson explored the innovative painting techniques of her time, and her style moved from impressionist to fauvist, from realism to a modernist abstraction. The variety of works in this exhibition demonstrates Peterson's artistic journey along with a glimpse of her private life. With photographs and archives, we get a sense of the independent woman, artist, and traveler whose works are displayed in museums around the world. This exhibition has been organized by the Mattatuck Museum. Community Gallery, Through July 22 - "Ecos: Resonancias de Historias Latinas de Carolina del Sur (Echoes: Resonances of South Carolina Latino Stories)" featuring a collaborative multimedia art exhibition featuring the stories of Latino immigrants in the Lowcountry interpreted by 19 select Latino South Carolina visual artists. Visitors to the exhibition have the opportunity to listen to each audio story and read its transcription as they view the artwork it inspired. Galleries 5 & 6, Ongoing - "Modern & Contemporary Art from the Collection". Celebrating some of the CMA's greatest hits, this exhibition features over 30 paintings, drawings, photographs and sculptures from the Museum's collection that have not been on view recently. It offers the visitor experiences both serious and sensual and is designed to both entertain and enlighten. Notable works included are by Jasper Johns, Howard Thomas, Sally Mann and Edward Ruscha, whose famous image of the Hollywood Hills (on view) has become a staple of the art world. Ray Taylor Fair Gallery, Ongoing - Featuring a new and permanent installation of its ancient art collection. The installation includes approximately 50 objects that introduce the major ancient civilizations from the Mediterranean and Near East. Examples of the earliest form of writing from 12th century B.C. Mesopotamia, are shown next to Egyptian scarabs and Greek painted vessels. The world of the ancient Romans is represented by 2nd century glass and bronze items and portrait sculpture. Many of these works have not been seen since the Museum moved to its location on Main Street in 1998. The collection has grown over the last several years with the donation of 12 fine Roman sculptures in 2002 from Pennsylvania collector Dr. Robert Y. Turner. Admission: Yes, but there is no admission charge on Sun. Hours: Tue.-Fri., 11am-5pm; first Fri., till 8pm; Sat., 10am-5pm & Sun., noon-5pm. Contact: 803/799-2810 or at (www.columbiamuseum.org).

McKissick Museum, University of South Carolina, USC Horseshoe, Columbia. Through Aug. 4 - "Sharing the Chores: Works on Paper by Jonathan Green". This limited engagement is an exciting opportunity to experience Green's vibrant color choices and bold imagery for which he has become famous. This Lowcountry native showcases his roots in hand-drawn lithographs that depict life and work for the Gullah people of South Carolina. This exhibition has previously traveled around the country and we're excited to bring it back home to McKissick. Ongoing - "Highlights from the Permanent Collections of McKissick Museum". Permanent - "Baruch Silver Collection," a collection of the Baruch family silver. And, "Natural Curiosity: USC and the Evolution of Scientific Inquiry into the Natural World". Hours: Mon.-Fri., 8:30am-5pm & Sat., 11am-3pm. Florence

Florence County Museum, 111 West Cheves Street, across the street from the Francis Marion University Performing Arts Center, Florence. Special Exhibits Gallery, Through July 22 - "Women Artists of Black Mountain College Exhibit". North Carolina's Black Mountain College was an experimental and progressive landmark in American art. Its founders and faculty were among the most memorable men in 20th century art history: Josef Albers, Robert Rauchenberg, Buckminster Fuller, Willem de Kooning, Philip Cage, Merce Cunningham. But what about the women? Using twenty-seven artworks in a broad range of media, including painting, textiles, sculpture, ceramics, and photography, this exhibit explores the unheralded role of women artists at

Black Mountain, whose own legacies often remain eclipsed by their male contemporaries. Community Gallery, Through Sept. 23 - "Print Detectives," an interactive exhibit for children and families, explores the wide variety of printmaking processes exhibited throughout the Florence County Museum, along with tools and techniques used in each. Visitors will search for clues as they learn about relief printing, intaglio printing, lithography, and serigraphy. Become a Print Detective with our interactive FCM Detective Kit. Search the museum for clues with activities to help engage with prints throughout the museum. Make prints at home with a free take-away packet for visitors with simple tools and instructions. Ongoing - This exhibit introduces visitors to the history of the museum and its formative collections. This gallery also exhibits the histories and diversity of the City of Florence, and the incorporated municipalities of Florence County. Greenville County Museum of Art, 420 College Street, Greenville. Through Sept. 16 - "Impressionism and the South." On April 15, 1874, in an act of defiance against the official French government-sanctioned Salon exhibitions, thirty self-proclaimed Independent artists opened an exhibition at photographer Nadar's vacated Paris studio. Shortly after, a satirical review that mocked Claude Monet's Impression, Sunrise gave the movement its name. Impressionism was the first bombshell launched against academic tradition. The movement defined light as color, becoming the first modern language of paint. Sun-drenched and spontaneous, this selection of American Impressionist paintings from the GCMA permanent collection invites viewers to consider the ideas and techniques that opened the door to modern visual expression. Through Sept. 16 - "Sidney Dickinson: A Connecticut Yankee in King Cotton's Court." Sidney Dickinson (1890 - 1980) studied with William Merritt Chase and George Bridgman at the Art Students League, where he later taught for more than twenty-five years. He exhibited extensively throughout the Northeast and was an active member of the National Academy of Design, serving as a jury member for a number of years before becoming a full Academician in 1927. Dickinson occasionally visited Calhoun, Alabama, where his parents worked with his maternal aunt, Charlotte Thorn, at the Calhoun Colored School. With guidance from Booker T. Washington, Thorn established the Calhoun Colored School in 1892. Ongoing - "South Carolina Icons". Consider the work of three African-American artists from South Carolina, David Drake, William H. Johnson, and Merton Simpson. A reception will be held on Aug. 3, from 6-9pm. For centuries most civilizations have considered jewelry as an enhancement of beauty, it's luxurious, preciousness symbolizing the prestige of its wearer. Today, jewelry and desirables continue to be synonymous. Has Cassell debunked these centuries of history by creating jewelry titled, The Undesirables? Has she painstaking carved and enameled brooches and necklaces that are off-putting and undesirable? Hardly. She has discovered beauty of form and color in slugs living under a rock, in the fungus that grows on rotting wood. Hours: Tue.-Fri., 1-5pm and Sun., 1-5pm. Contact: call 864/271-0679 or e-mail to (fleming.markel@gvltec.edu).

Martha Cloud Chapman Gallery, Campus Life Building, 429 North Church St., Spartanburg. Through Aug. 18 - "Old Main: A Trip Down Memory Lane". The exhibition explores the visual history of Wofford College through Main Building, known affectionately as Old Main. Referred to as "The Colledge" for many years, Old Main remains one of the nation's outstanding examples of "Italianate" or "Tuscan Villa" architecture. The cornerstone of Old Main was laid with imposing Masonic rites on July 4, 1851. Construction finally began in the summer of 1852 under the supervision of Ephraim Clayton of Asheville, N.C. Skilled African-American carpenters executed uniquely beautiful masonry and woodwork, including a pulpit and pews for the chapel. The exterior of the building today is true to the original design, but the interior has been modernized and renovated three times - in the early 1900s, in the 1960s and in 2007. The selected archival and photographic prints as well as works on paper provide an opportunity to take a trip down memory lane to Wofford's most famous landmark. Hours: 7am-midnight, daily. Contact: 864/597-4300.

Spartanburg Art Museum, Chapman Cultural Arts Center, 200 East St. John Street, Spartanburg. Main Gallery, Through Aug. 5 - "off the wall". While in classical sculpture, art was made from raw materials, in the present day it is often constructed from pre-existing, reclaimed objects. Contemporary sculpture is about understanding the ways in which objects both acquire and lose meaning, and using this understanding to imbue them with new values. "Off the Wall" examines 11 sculptors who use this "alchemy of objects" to create new physical, conceptual, and political spaces. Participating artists include: Heather Beardsley, Mike Benevenia, Jeremy Entwistle, Tracy Featherstone, Sherman Finch, Nathaniel Foley, Anna Kell, John C. Kelley, Ron Longsdorf, Janet Orsell, and Lauren Peterson. Alcove Gallery, Through Aug. 5 - "Jonathan brilliant".

Bechtler Museum of Modern Art, Levine Center for the Arts, 420 South Tryon St., Charlotte. Second Floor Gallery, Through July 8 - "ALFRED MANESSIER," an exhibition of paintings and prints by an artist who sought to create contemplative images where the natural and spiritual realms would converge, offering spaces for both respite and resistance. In addition to landscape-inspired paintings, the show includes Manessier's illustrations for St. John of the Cross' "Spiritual Canticles", Eugène Guillevic's "Cymbalum", and the elephantine portfolio "Presentation of the Beauce at Notre-Dame of Chartres". Born in 1911, Manessier moved to Paris in 1929 to study architecture at the École des Beaux Arts. He spent much of his time copying the Louvre's Rembrandts and Tintoretts and finally made a decisive switch to painting in 1938. Initially he followed the Cubists, constructing latticed compositions that incorporated the ordered structure of architecture. His style changed, however, as Europe inched closer to war. Manessier chose religious subjects because they seemed as elusive and vast as the natural world. Towards the end of his life, he reflected on his 40 years of painting spiritual themes, saying they "were at my fingertips and at the same time, infinite." Fourth-Floor Gallery, Through Sept. 9 - "Wrestling the Angel," an exhibition that examines how religion and sacred art appear in work made by seemingly secular, avant-garde artists. The examples on view critically investigate the role of religion and spirituality as both a social component and as a visual language often implicitly present in daily life, even if the image is not explicitly referencing the original religious source. Ongoing - The Bechtler Museum of Modern Art is named after the family of Andreas Bechtler, a Charlotte resident and native of Switzerland who assembled and inherited a collection of more than 1,400 artworks created by major figures of 20th-century modernism and donated it to the public trust. The Bechtler collection comprises artworks by seminal figures such as Alberto Giacometti, Joan Miro, Jean Tinguely, Max Ernst, Andy Warhol, Alexander Calder, Le Corbusier, Sol LeWitt, Edgar Degas, Nicolas de Stael, Barbara Hepworth and Picasso. Only a handful of the artworks in the Bechtler collection have been on public view in the United States. Admission: Yes. Hours: Mon., Wed.-Sat., 10am-5pm; Sun. noon-5pm; and open until 9pm the 1st. and 3rd. Fri. of each month. Contact: 704/353-9200 or at (www.bechtler.org).

Harvey B. Gantt Center for African-American Arts & Culture, Levine Center for the Arts, 551 S. Tryon St., Charlotte. Through July 29 - "By and About Women: The Collection of Dr. Dianne Whitfield-Locke and Dr. Carnell Locke." Dr. Whitfield-Locke and her husband, Dr. Carnell Locke, are avid art collectors and are also committed supporters of artists and African-American art institutions. The exhibition highlights selected works from their extensive collection which were either created by female artists or feature women as the subject. Like their larger collection, this exhibition represents a comprehensive history of art-making in general, and African-American art, specifically. Sculpture, sketches, oils, acrylics, paintings and collages fill the gallery. Masterpieces by pioneering women including Betye Saar, Camille Billops, Samella Lewis, Elizabeth Catlett, Emma Amos, Lois Mailou Jones, Faith Ringgold, and Augusta Savage headline the exhibition. The Lockes have also gathered work by E. J. Montgomery, Howardena Pindell, and Jacob Lawrence's wife, Gwendolyn Knight. Works by multi-media artists such as Robin Holder, Clarissa Sligh, Margo Humphrey and Alison Saar also appear in the gallery. Through July 29 - "A Creative Journey: The Collection of Judy and Patrick Diamond," curated by Dr. Michael D. Harris. The collection began during a year-long residence in East Africa when the couple were fresh out of graduate school and has continued throughout their life together. Their metaphorical journey reflects the geographic journey of their lives from Boston, where they met, to stops in Tanzania, Williamstown, Massachusetts, Chicago, Charlotte and Atlanta. Featured artists include: Benny Andrews (1930 - 2006); Radcliffe Bailey (b. 1968); Romare Bearden (1911 - 1988); Tarleton Blackwell (b. 1956); Margaret T. Burroughs (1917 - 2010); Sam Gilliam (b. 1933); Richard Hunt (b. 1935); Jacob Lawrence (1917 - 2002); Hughie Lee-Smith (1915 - 1999); Juan Logan (b. 1946); Jeanne Moutoussamy-Ashe (b. 1951); Ben Parrish; Cedric Smith (b. 1970); Henry O. Tanner (1859 - 1937); Cheryl Warrick (b. 1956); Charles White (1918 - 1979); Hale Woodruff (1900 - 1980); and Richard Yarde (b. 1939). Dr. Michael D. Harris is an artist, scholar, curator and professor presently teaching at Emory University in Atlanta. As a scholar, Harris has published "Colored Pictures: Race and Visual Representation" (2003) and has contributed to or co-authored a number of other publications. He has had articles on contemporary African art and African-American art published in a number of books and journals.

Through July 29 - "Lillian Blades: Mirrors of Life." Picture frames, buttons, flowers, wood blocks, mirrors and other objects – random to some, but symbolic to Lillian Blades – represent both the artist's past and present. Far from chaotic, viewing her work yields an unexpected calm and sense of wonder. These images, like most of her mixed-media collages, incorporate an array of patterns using found objects that seem to float on planes of bright and dark colors with each object holding a special meaning to the artist – picture frames are about capturing memories; buttons symbolize the loss of her mother - a seamstress - and the desire to remain connected; flowers represent her grandmother and her aunt who were both florists. In addition, these objects are also subjective – leaving room for interpretation and self-reflection by the viewer. Lillian Blades was born in Nassau, Bahamas in 1973 and currently resides in Atlanta, GA. She completed a BFA in Painting at the Savannah College of Art and Design, Savannah Campus and a MFA in Painting at Georgia State University. Through July 29 - "Frankhavemercy: Frequency." Through the lens of a camera, North Carolina-born photographer, designer and filmmaker Frank Jackson III – also known as Frankhavemercy – captures the emotions of growth, struggle and joy in his first exhibition, titled Frequency. Each image tells a story inspired by Frankhavemercy's experiences, memories or imagination. Exploiting his innate talent for capturing moments, figures and architecture, Frankhavemercy not only seizes the moment but combines the image he spies through his lens with imaginative editing to mirror the one he sees in his mind's eye. Frequency unpacks emotions driven by Frankhavemercy's past and present – both positive and negative – and showcases works of art that are exquisite and thought-provoking. Frankhavemercy is a Los Angeles based photographer and film director, who was born and raised in Fayetteville, North Carolina. Both his short films and editorial photography stem from a similar spirit and space. He is methodical about the moods of his work. He gives great thought to overall tones and composition by creating elaborate mood boards for every project he commits to. The presence

Mint Museum Randolph, 2730 Randolph Road, Charlotte. Bridges and Levine Galleries, Ongoing - "Contemporary British Studio Ceramics: The Grainer Collection". Focused on the collection of Diane and Marc Grainer, this installation is a survey of contemporary British studio ceramics. Comprising functional and sculptural objects made between the 1980s and today, the show features work by artists either born or residing in Great Britain, including established "contemporary classics" like Gordon Baldwin and Rupert Spira, and cutting-edge ceramicists such as Julian Stair and Kate Malone. Several recently-gifted works from the Grainers are included. Alexander, Spangler, and Harris Galleries, Ongoing - "Portals to the Past: British Ceramics 1675 - 1825". The Mint Museum's collection of eighteenth-century British pottery and porcelain is widely respected for its scope and quality. The collection numbers over 2,000 objects and includes important examples of both salt-glazed and dry-bodied stoneware from Staffordshire; tin-glazed earthenware from Bristol, Liverpool, and London; and cream-colored earthenware from Derbyshire, Staffordshire, and Yorkshire. Notable eighteenth-century porcelain factories represented include Chelsea, Bow, and Vauxhall in London, Longton Hall in Staffordshire, Worcester, Bristol, and others. Individual works in the collection are exceptional because of their rarity, craftsmanship, provenance, or as representative examples of particular types or methods of production or decoration. Ongoing - "American Glass". The nineteenth and early twentieth centuries represented a time of extraordinary growth for the American glass industry. Such companies as Boston & Sandwich Glass Company in Sandwich, MA; Steuben Glass Works in Corning, NY; and Libbey Glass Company in Toledo, OH, began operation and soon developed notable reputations for producing fashionable wares that were coveted by many middle- and upper-class consumers. "American Glass" showcases objects by these and other American glass companies, illustrating the variety of forms and styles that prevailed during this period. Glass-manufacturing techniques will be another focus of the exhibition, with representative examples of pressed, cut, blown, and molded glass. Nearly all of the works on view are from The Mint Museum's permanent collection of glass, which is second in size only to the ceramics collection in the museum's Decorative Arts holdings. Ongoing - "Arts of Africa". The African continent is remarkable in its geographic, social, political, and cultural diversity. This impressive diversity is reflected in the visual arts through a variety of media and forms including ceramics, masks, textiles, sculptures, prestige staffs, and shrines. With exceptional loans from private collectors and The Mint Museum's own collection of African Art, the museum is pleased to announce the expansion of its presentation of Arts of Africa, thereby providing visitors a more in-depth, meaningful, and exciting overview of African art. Heritage Gallery, Ongoing - Feature works of art, archival documents, and photographs documenting the growth and evolution of the museum, from its beginnings as the original branch of the US Mint to its founding as an art museum to the present and beyond. Ongoing - "Art for the Millions: WPA Prints" and "Carolina Clay," featuring a display of colorful wares made between 1920 and 1950 as potters from NC adapted their works to a market economy. "Art of the United States," featuring contemporary works from the Mint's permanent collection, including works by Romare Bearden, Maud Gatewood, John Biggers Juan Logan, Tarlton Blackwell, Radcliffe Bailey, Kojo Griffin, and others. "Art in the Americas," featuring paintings, precious metalwork, sculpture, furniture and decorative arts from the 17th through the 19th centuries illustrate the unique culture that emerged from the Spanish colonization of the Americas. Crosland Gallery - Featuring a presentation of portraits with many fascinating images presented. Rankin Gallery - Featuring a presentation of the Romare Bearden Collection, including two "new" Beardens.

NC A&T State University Galleries, 1601 E. Market Street, Dudley Building, NC A&T State University, Greensboro. Ongoing - The Matye Reed African Heritage Collection seeks to educate people about the culture, history and accomplishments of African societies and peoples of African descent. It achieves this through the development of exhibits drawn from its extensive collection of African artifacts, which represent a cross-section of African cultures from over thirty-five countries. The collection is made up of fine examples of African material culture including sculptures, masks, figures, household implements, musical instruments, and textiles. The modern collection includes works from Nigeria, Ghana, Ethiopia, Haiti and elsewhere in the African Diaspora. Hours: Tue.-Fri., 10am-5pm & sat., 1-5pm. Contact: 336/334-3209.

Revolution Mill, 1250 Revolution Mill Drive, Greensboro. Ongoing - WAM and Revolution are working to make this installation the first in a series of ongoing WAMRev collaborations, reflecting a shared commitment to presenting bold and imaginative exhibitions and reaching new audiences. Gallery 1250 is a new art space on the first floor of Revolution Mill's newly redeveloped 1250 building. The gallery was designed in the center of the floor, with walkways through the space and large glass windows so that tenants and visitors can continually view and experience the art. The 1250 building is part of the 50-acre mixed-use campus, and is home to artist studios, creative office spaces. It also features a multimedia gallery for film installations, a café area, and an outdoor event and performance space named Revolution Docks. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 11am-6pm, select evening + weekend hours will begin this fall. Contact: (www.revolutionmillgreensboro.com/WAMRev).

The Center for Visual Artists Greensboro, second floor of the Cultural Arts Center, 200 North Davie St., Greensboro. Ongoing - Featuring works by member artists from throughout the greater Greensboro area. Weatherspoon Art Museum, University of North Carolina - Greensboro, Cone Building, Tate and Spring Garden Streets, Greensboro. Through July 15 - "Extreme Measures," a collection exhibition. Drawn from the Weatherspoon's distinguished collection, Extreme Measures pairs objects of vastly different scale and media to explore their visual affinities in structure, theme, technique, or emphasis. While contrasts in scale are most readily apparent, the pairings share characteristics that encourage further scrutiny. Despite the fact that none of the artists were responding to each other's work per se, it is fascinating to see how they tackled similar issues in their own personal ways. Visitors are encouraged to look closely at each grouping and consider to what extent the juxtapositions further the nature of each individual object as well as amplify that of its mate when set in dialogue. Through Sept. 30 - "Single-Channel Catalyst III: Doug Aitken's migration (empire) and Selections from the Collection". In his video migration (empire), Los Angeles based artist Doug Aitken intermixes footage of U.S. industrial landscapes with unexpected scenes of indigenous wild animals confined in roadside motel rooms normally reserved for wayfaring people. Removed from their habitats but drawing on their natural instincts, these undomesticated animals interact alone or in like pairs with the room's furnishings, spaces, and environs. Gallery 6, Through Aug. 26 - "City, Village, Exurbia: Prints and Drawings from the Collection". The exhibit features images of assorted cities, villages, and the expanses that exist beyond the suburbs. Views of densely packed communities and scenes of quaint peaceful towns complement panoramas of rolling hills and isolated dwellings, prompting conjecture about the differences that exist between life in these sundry locales. The inclusion of trees, water, and structures, along with the artists' use of line, vantage point, medium, and tonal contrast, determine the overall mood and atmosphere of each work. A few of these landscape images no doubt will appeal to—and beckon—would be travelers. Atrium and Lobbies - Featuring works of art complementing current gallery exhibitions which are rotated in the atrium and public areas throughout both floors of the gallery. Tom Otterness' site-specific work, "The Frieze" is permanently installed in the atrium. Sculpture Courtyard - Featuring selections of American sculpture from 1900 to the present from the Weatherspoon Collection and on loan works from contemporary artists. Admission: Free. Hours: Tue., Wed. & Fri., 10am-5pm, Thur., 10am to 9pm and Sat. & Sun., 1-5pm. Contact: 336/334-5770 or at (<http://weatherspoon.uncg.edu/>).

Hickory Museum of Art, Arts and Science Center, 243 Third Avenue NE, Hickory. Shuford & local HMA Galleries, Through July 15 - "WALKING THE DOG: Installation by Paul Hunter Speagle". After furthering his education and art career in Savannah and New York, Paul Hunter Speagle returns to his native Hickory to pay homage to the landscape and culture he loves. Speagle will create an immersive environment where visitors can step into a landscape painting, complete with sounds of nature and smells of moss and apples. The installation will also include a selection of alla prima paintings (a wet into wet technique of oil painting done in one sitting) of his beloved Grandfather Mountain. Using 3 foot crayons that Speagle engineers, visitors will be able to color pages in a giant coloring book of North Carolina mountains designed by the artist. Coe Gallery, Through July 8 - "ONE MAN GROUP SHOW: The Cartoons and other Art of Matthew Diffe". Diffe was a painter first, of landscapes and abstractions, but then he became a cartoonist for "The New Yorker Magazine". He kept painting but no one ever saw that work until now (unless you came to his house for some reason and looked under the bed). In this exhibit Diffe shares his best cartoon art and the other art he's been doing for the past twenty years. Windows Gallery, Through July 15 - "Catawba Valley Camera Club: 2017 Year-End Award Winners". This exhibition features the 19 winning photos from the Catawba Valley Camera Club's Year-End Competition. Through July 15 - "RECENT ACQUISITIONS Hickory Museum of Art Collection". Hickory Museum of Art actively collects new works through gifts and purchases. This exhibition will change regularly to showcase paintings, prints and sculpture acquired over the last three years. Artists will include: George Pearse Ennis, Donna Phipps Stout, Hobson Pittman, Wolf Kahn, Leo Twiggs, Sterling Strauser, Paul Lancaster, Lee Hall, John Brady, Hattie Mae Leonard, Dan Smith, Pat Viles and many more. Third Floor Mezzanine, Ongoing - "Discover Folk Art: Unique Visions by Southern Self-taught Artists". Explore re-creations of artist work environments, including a school bus and a barn, family activity stations, more than 250 folk art objects, interactive touch screens and more. Free family guides available at check-in. Little Hands, Big Hands Gallery, Ongoing - "Little Hands, Big Hands". Younger visitors can be imaginative through creative exploration and play. Includes a puppet theater, mini art gallery, giant reading throne and more. Objects Gallery, Ongoing - "American Art Pottery": From the Museum's Moody Collection and "Born of Fire: Glass from the Museum's Luski Collection". Admission: Free. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-4pm & Sun., 1-4pm. Contact: 828/327-8576 or at (<http://hickoryart.org/>).

High Point

Installation by Susan Lenz

Theatre Art Galleries, High Point Theatre, 220 East Commerce Avenue, High Point. Through Aug. 3 - "HEATH SLANE: Images Along the Continuum," will be featured in the Main Gallery. High Point native Heath Slane's love of photography began through a course of study as a high school student at The Madeira School in Washington, DC. She continued to follow her passion at the International Center of Photography (ICP) in New York City, where she lived for almost 10 years. Through Aug. 3 - "Anonymous Ancestors", an installation will be featured in the Upstairs Gallery. To stand within Columbia, SC, artist Susan Lenz's installation, "Anonymous Ancestors," is to become immersed in the myriad of family stories handed down through generations. Each snapshot is a frozen moment on life's

The Museum of the Southeast American Indian, Old Main (first floor) at the University of North Carolina Pembroke, 1 University Drive, Pembroke. Ongoing - As part of the Southeast American Indian Studies Program at UNC Pembroke, The Museum of the Southeast American Indian maximizes the capacity of the University to address the complex historical, cultural and contemporary issues facing American Indian communities in North Carolina and the American Southeast. The Museum's cross-disciplinary collaborations greatly enhance the University's programs of research, service, outreach and instruction. The Museum is a multi-faceted museum and resource for scholarly research and community outreach. While the Museum contains exhibits of authentic Indian artifacts, arts and crafts from Indian communities all over the Americas, our primary focus is on tribes from the American Southeast. Many items come from North Carolina Native communities, with special emphasis on Robeson County Indian people. Specific focus is placed on the largest North Carolina tribe, the Lumbee, but our outreach activities have extended into Virginia and South Carolina with plans for further outreach throughout the Southeast. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 9am-5pm. We typically close for lunch from noon-1pm. Contact: call 910/521-6282 or e-mail to (nativemuseum@uncp.edu).

Gregg Museum of Art & Design, The Historic Chancellor's Residence, NC State University, located at 1903 Hillsborough Street, Raleigh. Adams and Woodson Galleries, Through July 8 - "Bob Trotman: Business as Usual". Startling -- and, once seen, unforgettable -- kinetic pieces will be on display at the Gregg Museum. The pieces included in "Business as Usual" are the work of North Carolina sculptor Bob Trotman, and this will be the largest exhibition of his kinetic work ever presented. The title is a play on words, suggesting both the ordinary everydayness of Trotman's carvings of business men and women in their office workplace attire -- all suits, ties and wingtip shoes -- along with his fascination with the world of corporate business and high finance. Trotman sees this world through skeptical eyes, reinterpreting it with penetrating humor and the consummate skills of a master craftsman. Robert K. Black and J. Ormond Sanderson Gallery, Through Sept. 9 - "DESIGN DUET: the creative lives of Robert Black and Ormond Sanderson". In the early 1960s, while Research Triangle Park was turning central NC into a magnet for modern technology, Robert Black and Ormond Sanderson's Strawvalley complex presented furniture, lighting, and design by such well known architect/designers as Mies van der Rohe, Harry Bertola, Eero Saarinen, Marcel Breuer, and Le Corbusier. Black and Sanderson were not only among the first to introduce modern design to southern consumers, but also major artists in their own right. Design Duet includes striking collage-paintings and award-winning stonewares by Black, alongside the etched and glazed enamels that led the organizers of the 1964 New York World's Fair to choose Sanderson to represent the best of American art in its United States Pavilion. Pieces by other major designers round out the exhibition. Ongoing - The Museum along with the 15,000 sq. ft. addition currently under construction will increase the museum's visibility while significantly adding to its exhibition and programming space. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 9am-5pm. Contact: Zoe Starling, Curator of Education at 919/513-7244 or at (<https://gregg.arts.ncsu.edu/>).

Nature Art Gallery, inside the Museum Store, North Carolina Museum of Natural Sciences, 11 W. Jones Street, downtown Raleigh. Through July 29 - "Birds and Butterflies," features works by nature photography by Matthew Leavitt. All exhibited art is for sale. Leavitt offered, "I've been an ardent photographer since the '60s," says Leavitt, who has a degree in journalism with a minor in photojournalism from Boston University. "The advent of digital photography revitalized my passion and I have been wandering with camera ever since. My favorite subjects include birds -- especially herons, ospreys and eagles -- bees, dragonflies and butterflies." Admission: Free. Gallery Hours: Mon.-Sat., 9am-4:45pm & Sun., noon-4:45pm. Store Contact: 919/733-7450, ext. 360 or at (<http://naturalsciences.org/visit/museum-store/nature-art-gallery/>).

North Carolina Museum of Art, 2110 Blue Ridge Road, Raleigh. Through July 22 - "You Are Here: Light, Color, and Sound Experiences". The exhibition immersive art installations by 15 contemporary artists, including large-scale light works, sound installations, video works, mixed-media room-size environments, and site-specific projects. Some are delightfully low-tech, transforming ordinary materials into awe-inspiring visuals, while others make use of experimental new media, fusing art and technology in interactive works that change in response to the viewer. The artists in this exhibition employ a diversity of media to create intriguing experiences that engage the senses, activate the imagination, and provide connections between the viewer and the work of art. Through Dec. 2 - "Transience Emerging Artists Exhibition". Painting, photography, and sculpture created by emerging artists responding to cultural fluidity and the dynamics of cultural change. Artists included in this exhibition participated in a two-day summer symposium, "Memory and Mark," with artist and UNC-Chapel Hill professor Lien Truong. African Art Gallery, East Building, Level A, Ongoing - Featuring African creativity spanning 16 centuries. The new gallery will be three times as large as the old West Building gallery, allowing the Museum to display nearly twice as many works - including some that have not been on view in a decade, and others that are newly acquired and have never before been on display. The new gallery will feature improved light control so that light-sensitive works of art, such as textiles and works on paper, can be given more visibility, shown in curated rotations. The gallery will include a designated space to highlight North Carolina collections of African art from private collectors and public institutions, beginning with work from Bennett College. It will also incorporate African and African Diasporic modern and contemporary art, including a site-specific wall drawing by Nigerian-American artist Victor Ekpuk. NCMA Park - The North Carolina Museum of Art (NCMA) announces new works of art to be installed in the 164-acre NCMA Park. The works include a bronze tree by Italian artist Giuseppe Penone, a playful pair of benches designed by Hank Willis Thomas, and a 10-day installation of 23-foot-tall illuminated rabbits by Australian artist Amanda Parer. The sculptures will be featured at the NCMA's Park Celebration on Nov. 6, when the public is invited to experience the newly expanded Park with a variety of outdoor activities. Ongoing - Featuring 10 additional sculptures by the celebrated French artist Rodin on loan from Iris Cantor's private collection. Ongoing - "John James Audubon's The Birds of America". The state has owned this treasured volume since 1848, but it has never been exhibited. Ongoing - The North Carolina Museum of Art has an outstanding permanent collection of more than 5,000 objects spanning antiquity to the present day. On the occasion of the expansion, the Museum has acquired more than 100 new works of art. Representing commissions, gifts, and purchases, the new works encompass important and diverse examples of historic and contemporary art from around the world, and will be installed in the Museum's new building and the surrounding landscape. Highlights include a gift of 28 sculptures by Auguste Rodin, and work by such internationally acclaimed artists as Roxy Paine, Ursula von Rydingsvard, El Anatsui, Jaime Plensa, Jackie Ferrara, Ellsworth Kelly, and David Park, among others. Admission: Yes for some exhibits. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 9am-5pm; Sun., 10am-5pm; & open until 9pm on Fri. Contact: 919/839-6262 or at (www.ncartmuseum.org).

North Carolina Museum of History, 5 East Edenton Street, (between Salisbury and Wilmington Streets), Raleigh. Through Jan. 6, 2019 - "Look Again: Discovering Historical Photos". The North Carolina Museum of History will open a new exhibit featuring photos from the museum's own collection. Images in the exhibit include portraits, scenes and events from across the state and over the decades, from the 1850s to the 1960s. Through Mar. 3, 2019 - "The North Carolina Roots of Artist Ernie Barnes," featuring a new exhibit showcasing original paintings by and artifacts from the life of Ernie Barnes, a native North Carolinian and NFL football player who became one of the nation's foremost African-American artists. Widely-known as the real painter behind the character J.J. Evans' artwork in the groundbreaking African-American sitcom "Good Times", Barnes' unique style of painting made him one of the premier figurative artists of the late 20th and early 21st centuries. His style, which has been widely imitated, is best exemplified by his celebrated Sugar Shack dance scene that appeared on Marvin Gaye's "I Want You" album cover and in the closing credits of "Good Times". Ongoing - Featuring exhibits dealing with North Carolina's history as a theme. Admission: Free. Hours: Mon.-Sat., 9am-5pm & Sun., noon-5pm. Contact: 919/807-7900 or at (<http://www.ncmuseumofhistory.org/>).

Work by Noyes Capehart

Art Cellar Gallery, 920 Shawneehaw Ave., Hwy 184, Banner Elk. July 5 - 28 - "Variation on a Theme," featuring works by Gregory Smith and Tim Turner. A reception will be held on July 7, from 4-6pm. The exhibit will feature abstract painted works from both artists. Gregory Smith will be showing 24 alterations of the same composition, from small to large paintings. This concept was inspired by the 24 variations of "Rhapsody on a Theme of Paganini" by Sergei Rachmaninoff. Tim Turner's work is often a variation of an idea. Using and reusing canvases, Turner builds onto his paintings, creating shape and texture by using scraps of canvas from paintings that, "didn't make the cut." These two artists showing together will thrill and excite any viewer. From color to technique, this will be a show you don't want to miss. July 15, from 2-4pm - "An Approach to the Meaning of Art: An afternoon with the artist Noyes Capehart. Lincolnton

Gallery 27, 808 W. Hwy. 27, Lincolnton, NC. Through Aug. 31 - "Firmly Rooted," featuring paintings by Stacey Pilkington-Smith and Liz McKay. The adage "opposites attract" holds a great deal of truth. Often art that would be viewed as drastically different in style and technique convey similar themes and emotions. Stacey Pilkington-Smith's background in graphic art is clearly visible in her illustrational style, while Liz McKay's fine art training resonates in her powerful use of composition and line. Two very different approaches, yet both artists draw inspiration from the unruly aspects of the natural world by utilizing soft sinuous lines, intertwining curves and earthy elements to express feminine power. Ongoing - The gallery is the area's only working art gallery specializing in representing new and emerging artists. We also represents established artists. The space houses a formal fine art gallery, gift shop, and large classroom area. Hours: Wed.-Fri., 11am-6pm, and Sat., 9am-2pm.
