Reynolda House Museum of American Art, Reynolda Road, Winston-Salem. July 16 - Dec. 12 - "The Voyage of Life: Art, Allegory, and Community Response." opens July 16 at Reynolda House Museum of American Art with "Weekend of Gratitude" to members, first responders, and Wake Forest University faculty, staff, and students, open to the public July 20. This Reynolda and Wake Forest University-curated exhibition features community-sourced stories alongside works of art by artists such as Alice Neel, Andy Warhol, Lee Krasner, Robert Colescott, Keith Haring, Romare Bearden and Grant Wood, will be featured alongside community-sourced stories and reveal critical moments in the voyage of life, with its heydays, rough patches and new starts. In this exhibition, three centuries of American art will illuminate the chapters and most defining moments of every individual life. "The Voyage of Life" explores how each person "plays in his or her time many parts," attaining awareness as children, striking out as individuals, embracing or avoiding change during adulthood, and learning new ways of being in old age. Community members of all ages have made correlations between the art featured in the exhibition and their own experience, and these observations will accompany curatorial descriptions throughout the exhibition and on social and digital channels throughout the exhibition. Master Bedroom Gallery, Through July 25 - "A Self in the Remaking: Katharine Smith Reynolds Johnston." Katharine's achievements as a businesswoman and social reformer often overshadow who she was as a woman. Her accomplishments at Reynolda make it all too easy to forget that she had her own complex needs, yearnings, and vulnerabilities. After the death of R.J. Reynolds in 1918, Katharine entered the 1920s ready to embrace an era shaped by new ideas, new technologies, and new fashions. Despite the privilege bestowed by her wealth and status, Katharine could not escape the stress of her many familial and social responsibilities, but in the 1920s, she looked to cultural pursuits and more stylish pleasures. This exhibition examines the modern sensibilities and new relationships that defined Katharine in her final years before her death at age forty-three. Ongoing - Collection of 18th through 20th century art, sculpture, American art, and pottery. artist Freeman Vines has made guitars in his shop in eastern North Carolina using found objects, including wood from a tree where a man was once lynched. In addition to Vines' haunting sculptures, the "Hanging Tree Guitars" exhibition also includes a number of tintype photographs by Timothy Duffy. Freeman Vines' sculpture and words are the subject of the forthcoming book "Hanging Tree Guitars by Freeman Vines with Timothy Duffy and Zoe Van Buren". Potter Gallery, July 15 through Sept. 26 - "TIMESHARE", a multimedia exhibition by Jillian Mayer exploring environmental collapse, reflectivity, leisure, adaptation, privilege, the institution, and art. A reception will be held on July 15, from 5-8pm. Admission is free, with a suggested $10 donation. Inspired by prep work and survivalist subcultures in the wake of global climate change, Mayer's fiberglass sculptures, ceramic forms, and paintings seem to point to one harsh reality: time is running out. In the context of environmental and infrastructural collapse, the exhibited works are tongue-in-cheek propositions on how humans might discover new ways to adapt to the natural world. Mayer explores how art can become functional during times of disaster or when the planet becomes uninhabitable. Ongoing - Founded in 1956, the Southeastern Center for Contemporary Art offers a front-row seat to the art of our time.
